Regents Tighten Entry as Negroes Eye Classes Here

By ALBERT RILEY

Entrance requirements for the University System of Georgia have been tightened by the Board of Regents amid signs that Negroes may make a renewed effort to enroll at Georgia State College of Business Administration.

New regulations governing the admission of students to all units of the system were disclosed Wednesday as the regents also took these actions:

1. Approved tentative building plans for a new $2,404,000 classroom building at Georgia Tech, to be financed by the University System Building Authority.

LIVESTOCK LABORATORY

2. Instructed Dr. O. C. Aders, president of the University of Georgia, to try to get the federal government to locate a proposed 18-million-dollar laboratory center at Athens for a continuing study of livestock diseases.

3. Appointed Dr. Joseph E. Moore, head of the psychology department at Georgia Tech, as director of a new testing program to screen Georgia high school graduates seeking admission to the state colleges and universities.

4. Authorized a $1,200,000 program for rehabilitation, fire safety and maintenance at institutions throughout the system, including $311,490 for the University of Georgia and $183,000 for Georgia Tech.

PRIVATE SESSION

The regents disclosed that at a private session last May 9 entrance requirements regulations were tightened after six Negroes had sought unsuccessfully to enroll for the spring quarter at the Georgia State College in Atlanta.

The new regulations were disclosed as the University System also revealed that at least four more Negroes, perhaps seven, may seek enrollment at Georgia State this week.

Within the last few days seven Negroes reportedly have obtained application blanks for summer term registration Thursday and Friday.

One report listed the names of four, all from Atlanta, who were expected to apply. In the list were Ed Billingsley, an Atlanta Daily World reporter and graduate of Morehouse College; Barbara Hunt, 22, stenographer in the Atlanta office of The Pittsburgh Courier; another Negro newspaper; W. O. Macomson, a schoolteacher; and Russell T. Roberts, insurance salesman.

Gulf Storm Sinks Tug; 8 Missing

Winds Go Inland; Copters Save 17

GULFPORT, Miss., June 13 (AP)—The Coast Guard said the 60-foot tug Maydee out of New Orleans sank five miles south of Long Beach, Miss., tonight and eight men were missing. Seven others were picked up by another tug in waters lashed by the first tropical disturbance of the season.

The storm moved inland from the Gulf of Mexico late today spreading heavy rain in advance of its center.

Winds around 35 miles an hour were felt from the Mississippi River to Pensacola, Fla., tonight after gusts up to 52 miles an hour had been reported earlier.

Seventeen men had been rescued earlier by helicopters in three separate operations.

PERILED BY HIGH SEAS

Coast Guard and Navy helicopters rescued five men who were in a Coast Guard station in the Southwest Pass at the mouth of the Mississippi. The building was threatened by high seas whipped by the disturbance.

A Navy helicopter rescued six men who were aboard a floating fish factory which broke from its moorings in the Mississippi Sound.

Earlier today, the fishing vessel Milmar went aground near the mouth of the Mississippi River. A Coast Guard helicopter rescued the six men aboard.

A plane from Jacksonville Naval Air Station watched the disturbance as it moved over southeast Louisiana.

TUG, BARGE AGROUND

The Coast Guard said further attempts would be made to move the tug Kathleen which went aground with a large barge at Pass Manchac, 35 miles north-west of New Orleans, yesterday. All crewmen were safe. A Coast Guard cutter tried unsuccessfully yesterday and today to refloat the tug.

Five persons were injured in the New Orleans area as the result of slippery streets and ceiling plaster weakened by the rain.

The highest tides since the 1947 hurricane were experienced in the Biloxi-Gulfport area on the Mississippi coast. Tides were five feet above normal, covering the new 28-mile sand beach.

Water crept over the floors of some stores in parts of Biloxi and winds and waves tore many small boats loose and beached them.

One large barge was washed ashore at Gulfport.

Lawn-Reviving Showers Expected To Reach Atlanta This Afternoon

Drought-breaking rains, touched off by a tropical low pressure system moving up the Mississippi valley from the Gulf of Mexico, are expected to reach Atlanta and north Georgia Thursday afternoon and evening.

The forecast for Atlanta and vicinity Thursday is mostly cloudy and cooler with occasional showers and thundershowers in the afternoon and evening. Friday will be partly cloudy and warmer with a chance of thundershowers in the afternoon and evening, the weatherman said.

The rains are expected to revive Georgia's major field crops, now showing a marked decline due to drought, a Department of Agriculture crop reporting bulletin said.

600 Jet Bombers Able To Carry Blow Abroad Planned by AF in '59

Rise in Goal Is Revealed By Senators

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Air Force testimony that it plans a fleet of 600 B52 intercontinental jet bombers by 1959 was released today by a Senate subcommittee.

The new air power goal, increased by 100 planes, was disclosed with the publication of heavily censored closed-door testimony by Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, deputy chief of staff in charge of Air Force production.

He appeared before the Senate Air Power Investigating subcommittee which last month heard testimony that, as of then, the Air Force had taken delivery of 47 B52s.

TARGET RAISED

Irvine told the subcommittee that the old goal of 500 B52s was discarded recently when future production targets were advanced from 17 to 20 bombers a month.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, has told the group that in recent months five or six B52s have been produced each month. But he said defects in small component parts had delayed acceptance of most of these.

Irvine said the production goal for B52s was formerly 12 a month—or 400 by 1959. Subsequent steps in production goals "would get us up to 598 airplanes," he testified.

He appeared before the subcommittee May 10.

THINKS U.S. STILL AHEAD

Calling himself an Air Force "oldtimer," Irvine said his "personal feeling" is that the United States still leads Russian air power "on the broad front."

"The thing that worries us oldtimers," he continued, "is the rate at which they—the Soviets—have been closing the gap, and the obvious inference, unless very positive action is taken on a very broad front in this country, they are going to be ahead of us in all areas."

He said his estimate of the situation was based on study of intelligence reports, production data and "what I know about what we are doing."

After speaking of B52 production, Irvine said:

'Shine Bottled In Bondage Trips U.S. Pen Inmate

Carnel Sprinkles, an inmate of the Atlanta Federal prison who is currently serving a sentence for moonshining, was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury Wednesday on two counts of operating a whisky distillery at the penitentiary.

Sprinkles was seized by FBI agents while trying to hide some 'shine. His still, strictly of the fly-by-night type, was built about a milk can.

Assistant U. S. Atty. John W. Stokes Jr. said the inmate had welded a copper piping inside the can lid, using live steam from the prison dairy barn to ferment the mash.

City-Fulton Water Pact Is Studied

By HERMAN HANCOCK

A proposed new contract under which Atlanta and Fulton County would cooperate to provide future water services for unincorporated areas was taken under study Wednesday by the aldermanic board water committee.

Fulton County officials appeared before the committee and presented a survey of water services proposed for areas southwest of East Point and College Park. They also proposed a new "open-end" contract to set up a formula for future water extensions into unincorporated areas of Fulton County.

MINIMUM BILL

Under the projected contract, the minimum water bill on such future extensions would be $4 monthly for 6,000 gallons of water, the same gallonage allowed for the minimum rate inside Atlanta.

However, $1.50 of the charge plus 50 cents for each service would be paid to Fulton County to retire water revenue certificates which would be issued to finance the main laying. That would mean the city actually would get $2 a month and Fulton County the other $2 a month from each minimum service.

Fulton Commissioners James H. Aldredge, chairman; Tom Camp and Archie Lindsey were supported by Fulton County Manager Al Fuller and Fulton attorney Harold Sheats in presenting the matter.

Ald. James E. Jackson, water committee chairman, and other committee members asked for 10 days to review the proposal. They indicated they would be ready to discuss the matter in detail by that time.

HAS COUNTY OKAY

The resolution, containing the contract provisions, had been approved by Fulton commissioners shortly before the joint meeting held at City Hall.

Under the proposal the city would assume full responsibility for the operation of all mains laid under the program, for enlargement of pumps, storage tanks and all other equipment and facilities necessary to meet demands for increased future services.

On the other hand, the city would be deemed the mains as indebtedness is paid off. All the money collected by the county would be dedicated to retirement of indebtedness or for new main extensions.

Heart Bared by Gun Blast, Cobb Man Drives for Help

Constitution State News Service

MARIETTA, June 13—A 35-year-old Acworth man was in serious condition at Kennestone Hospital Wednesday after his shotgun had accidentally gone off Tuesday afternoon exposing his heart.

Perry H. McCullough, Rte. 2, Grogan road, Acworth, had been working on a house that he was building when his gun discharged. Despite the wound, police said McCullough struggled into his car and then drove it six-tenths of a mile for help.

With holes in his chest, lung, intestine and diaphragm, and with eight injured ribs, McCullough managed to pull his car into Tulin's Service Station on the Marietta highway.

Buddy Morgan and Gene Highfield, station attendants, removed McCullough from the car and then drove him to the hospital.

Cobb County Detective Lt. Al Bagley said McCullough, who is a swing-shift worker at Lockheed, had taken a shot at a whippoorwill through a window of the house.

When he set the gun down, Bagley said, it went off, wounding him.

McCullough was unconscious when he arrived at the hospital. Morgan and Highfield were held for questioning until McCullough was revived and able to tell of the accident.

"I was handing out magazines from the rear to the front of the plane. When I got to the front a passenger asked me what the temperature was in Charlotte. I went forward into the pilot's compartment to check."

"As soon as I got there, a red light flashed on showing that a door on the craft had been opened. I also felt a rush of air."

"I ran back into the passenger's compartment and a passenger at the back of the plane said a man had just gone out the door."

McCullough said it was "too dangerous to try and close the door so the passengers were ordered to fasten seat belts and not to smoke as 'routine precautionary measures.'"

He said the passengers were "calm" when the plane landed.

Benson Sees Import Cut On Textiles

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said today he probably will seek action to protect American cotton mills by limiting imports of foreign cloth.

Benson told a news conference "there is a pretty good case" for protecting the domestic textile industry because of raw cotton export provisions of the new farm law.

The law orders the department to export its surplus cotton at world prices. Under the act, the department must accept bids at 25.5 cents a pound if there are no higher offers. This is about 10 cents a pound less than American mills pay for cotton of comparable quality.

Foreign mills could buy the cut-rate cotton, spin it into cloth, and undersell domestic mills in this country.

Benson said the matter of protection for textiles "is under very careful review and I anticipate there will be some such program." He indicated the department probably would propose that the tariff commission study the import situation and recommend import quotas or fees to the President.

Flynt Warns Ike, Tariff Board on Japan Textiles

WASHINGTON, June 13—Rep. Flynt (D-Ga.) today urged the President and the Tariff Commission to protect the American textile industry from Japanese imports.

In telegrams to the White House and the commission Flynt cited increasing imports from Japan as the major factor in the textile industry's current slump.

Flynt noted press reports and reports from his own Fourth District of Georgia of mills closing down and going on short time, and called on the President and tariff officials to invoke powers given them by law to provide relief for the industry.

The Griffin congressman also took the floor of the House to speak on the subject, calling the attention of Congress to the problems facing the textile industry.

Adenauer To See Ike At Bedside Chat Today

WASHINGTON, June 13—President Eisenhower today decided to receive West German Chancellor Adenauer tomorrow for a "courtesy" visit.

working today as his recovery continued to be reported as "satisfactory" by his doctors. This was the fourth day after the President underwent abdominal surgery, and the evening medical bulletin said his "spirits remained high throughout the day."

For the first time today the President took food through the mouth—a little less than half a cup of clear beef broth. Also for the first time, the drainage tube inserted in his stomach by way of his nose was removed for extended periods.

Eisenhower enjoyed both experiences "very much," according to Press Secretary Hagerty. He saw the President briefly this morning and described him as looking "quite chipper."

Hagerty, while terming the Adenauer call a "courtesy visit," did not rule out the possibility that German problems would be discussed. The chancellor is in Washington for a three-day visit after receiving an honorary degree at Yale University.

Senators Say Ike Must Justify Aid

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, June 13—The Senate Democratic and Republican leaders warned the Eisenhower administration today that only its sustained and urgent exertions could win the foreign aid fight.

They placed upon the administration itself the responsibility for the outcome of efforts to add in the Senate $600,000,000 to the $3,800,000,000 measure approved in the House.

This was the net effect of statements made separately by Sen. Johnson of Texas for the Democrats and Sen. Knowland of California for the Republicans.

PLEAS NEED BACKING

In substance, they took the position that President Eisenhower's repeated personal and general appeals on the issue must be fortified by strong and concrete justifications from his subordinates for the additional money sought.

At the same time, the Republican side of the Senate manifested a somewhat frosty division of view on means and methods of prosecuting the struggle.

Ten Senate Republicans of the strongly pro-Eisenhower wing of the party issued a statement calling for an immediate and active marshaling behind the President's position.

PARTY DIVISION

They were left in pointed isolation by their 37 Republican colleagues. None of the remaining 37 Republicans, a group including

Getting Water for Bride on Plane, He Goes Out Wrong Door to Death

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C., June 13 (AP)—A honeymooner fell 6,500 feet to his death from a Piedmont Airlines plane tonight when he apparently opened the wrong door while going to get his bride a drink of water. His body landed near a cemetery.

The victim was identified as Oren A. Pruitt, 38, of Charlotte, N.C. His wife said she and Pruitt had been married Tuesday.

Mrs. Pruitt said he was going to the rest room to get her a drink of water but apparently opened the wrong door.

Piedmont Vice President R. D. Hager said the plane was en route from Charlotte to Asheville, N.C., and was nearing Shelby, N.C., when the accident occurred. The plane was flying at about 6,500 feet.

Hager said at first that it could not be determined whether the door was opened or whether it blew open accidentally.

Hager said he first learned of the incident when pilot Baxter Slaughter radioed the airport here.

The two-engine DC3 airliner began its flight in Fayetteville, N.C., and was en route to Louisville, Ky., via Charlotte, Asheville and Bristol, Tenn.

State Highway Patrol Sgt. J. B. Kuykendall said the body fell near the Zion Church cemetery six miles north of Shelby.

He said Luther Hanes, caretaker at the church, said he heard a "whistling sound" and looked up to see the body falling.

W. C. McGee, Piedmont sales manager in Asheville, quoted flight attendant Burt Barnes as saying:

"I was handing out magazines from the rear to the front of the plane. When I got to the front a passenger asked me what the temperature was in Charlotte. I went forward into the pilot's compartment to check."

Bug Racket's Mrs. Hodges Given 5 Years in Assault, Shooting Cases

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Mrs. Margaret Hodges, well-known Atlanta lottery figure, was sentenced to five years in prison Wednesday night after a Fulton Superior Court jury found her guilty of assault and battery and two counts of shooting at another.

The charges grew out of an attack on a Negro woman and a Negro man.

Mrs. Hodges was gunfight Feb. 11 with Mrs. Hodges and two men identified by the state as her "bired thugs" on one side, and several Negroes on the other, over an allegedly "crooked lottery ticket."

The defense immediately filed a motion for a new trial and Judge E. E. Andrews set a hearing on the motion for 3:30 p.m. Aug. 1. He refused, however, to let her go free on appeal bond pending the hearing.

The jury found Mrs. Hodges, who told the judge she was 39, guilty of assault and battery for an attack on Mamie Neal Daniel, a Negro woman who said she had worked for Mrs. Hodges in an $8,000-a-day lottery headquarters.

She testified that Mrs. Hodges, after accusing her of "slipping a hit ticket" into the day's business, beat her in the face with fist and shoe heel and threatened to throw her in the Chattahoochee River.

The jury found Mrs. Hodges guilty of shooting at another in connection with gunfire directed at Joe Daniel, the husband of the Negro woman, and at Claude Travis, Daniel's employee at his Northside drive, NW, filling station.

The judge sentenced Mrs. Hodges to 12 months on the assault and battery conviction. The jury set Mrs. Hodges' sentence on the shooting charges at four to four years each. Judge Andrews set the first four-year sentence to follow the one-year term, but allowed the second four-year term to run concurrently with the other sentences.

In imposing the sentence, Judge Andrews told Mrs. Hodges that it did not make any difference if the Negro woman had "slipped a hit" into her lottery business, "you wouldn't have any right to take the law into your own hands." He likened the attacks to the Al Capone gangster days.

Bonn, U.S. Bid Soviet Back Unity

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON, June 13—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany and Secretary of State Dulles challenged the Soviet Union today to prove its professions of peaceful intentions by agreeing to the reunification of Germany.

"It will be difficult to place credence in promises and pledges of the Soviet government," the two statesmen declared in a final communiqué on their talks here, until the Soviet Union acts "to put an end to the brutal and unnatural division it has imposed on Germany."

"MORE DANGEROUS"

Adenauer emphasized at a news conference this afternoon that the new Russian method of "friendly smiles" is "much more effective and dangerous than former threats of a hot war." He urged Americans not to soften in their attitude toward the Soviet Union, and to remember that their fate depends on the fate of Europe.

This was the main burden of what Dr. Adenauer said in Washington. As he has on previous visits to Washington in the past three years, he developed the idea during talks with state department and other officials that if the United States and the West will stick unyielding to a tough attitude the Soviet Union will eventually agree to the unification of Germany on Western terms.

FATE OF AMERICA

"We Germans are in danger," he declared this afternoon. "But our fate is inseparable from that of Europe. And the fate of America depends on the fate of Europe. If we don't firmly stand together in the long run we shall be defeated."

Gov. Timmerman Enlists Support For 3rd Party but Scott Fights Plan

WASHINGTON, June 13—Gov. George B. Timmerman Jr. of South Carolina is attempting to enlist the support of southern Democratic senators for a third party movement in the South if that region is dissatisfied with the outcome of the Democratic National Convention.

This was disclosed today, but Sen. W. Kerr Scott, Democrat of North Carolina, in issuing a statement sharply refusing to have anything to do with such a movement.

Gov. Timmerman, in a letter to Sen. Scott and to others, had asked for their association with an action taken on June 11 by the South Carolina right wing Democratic organization.

That organization had proposed that the South create a Democratic caucus of its own to meet ahead of the national convention and to attempt to prepare an all-southern position on segregation and related matter to take to the national convention.

It was proposed also that all

"I am a southern Democrat, a North Carolina Democrat, and I refuse to be split, shaken or shivered."

In using the word "shivered" Sen. Scott was hitting at Gov. Alan Shivers of Texas who in 1952 led a southern bolt that cost the Democratic nominee, Adlai E. Stevenson, four southern states.

Jury Recesses in Tax Conspiracy Case Against 2 Truman Ex-Aides

ST. LOUIS, June 13 (UP)—The Internal Revenue Bureau, and a jury of rural Missourians deliberating charges of conspiracy to defraud the government against Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle failed to reach a verdict tonight and was recessed until tomorrow.

The eight men and four women, who took the case at 11:22 a.m. EST after nearly six weeks of hearing evidence against the two high Truman administration officials, reported at 10 p.m. EST they were not near a verdict.

RECESS ORDERED

Federal Judge Rubey M. Hulen ordered the recess until 9 a.m. Thursday when the jurors will resume deliberations.

Connelly, White House aid to former President Truman, and Caudle, former assistant attorney general in charge of the tax division, were charged with conspiring with Harry I. Schwimmer, an attorney, to allow a tax evader, Irving Sachs, to escape criminal trial.

ONLY ISSUE INVOLVED

Judge Hulen, in his instructions to the jurors, told them the only issue they had to decide was the intent of Caudle and Connelly in the handling of the Sachs case.

Hulen said the prosecution, headed by Wyllys S. Newcomb, special assistant attorney general, was relying on circumstantial evidence which, he explained, "may be as positive and conclusive as direct evidence."

The jury, after deliberating for two hours, asked the court for a long list of exhibits, including a file of letters between Caudle, Connelly and Schwimmer, and the record of a telephone conversation between Caudle and a probation officer in St. Louis concerning a recommendation of sentence for Sachs.

The jury also asked for an index record of telephone calls made to the office of Charles Oliphant, chief counsel for the old representations as to the tax evader's epileptic condition.

Defense attorneys contended Connelly was only doing his job at the White House by introducing Schwimmer to Caudle and that Caudle acted in good faith in dropping criminal charges against Sachs in accordance with Justice Department policy not to prosecute tax evaders whose health would be endangered by trial.

CHARGE OIL ROYALTY

The government produced evidence which it claimed proved that Schwimmer gave Connelly an oil royalty worth $3,600 and one worth $3,300 to Caudle for their efforts on behalf of Sachs.

Connelly said he paid Schwimmer $750 for the royalty and never knew it was worth more than that. Caudle said he told Schwimmer to take back the royalty and "cut him to ribbons" for offering it.

The defense contended Newcomb had produced only "innuendo and suspicion" and that if either of the defendants were convicted "no public official would be safe."

COLLATERAL MATTERS

Hulen told the jury the handling of the Sachs case "is the only issue" and collateral matters, which took up a large share of the trial, should be considered as to their bearing upon it.

The offense carries a maximum penalty, upon conviction, of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Foreign Aid Cuts Could Cost Much

The Senate should think long and hard before rejecting President Eisenhower's appeal to restore most of the $1,100,000,000 which the House cut from the foreign aid bill. The cut could prove the most costly bit of economy in history.

The administration has been trying to readjust its foreign policy to meet the new and grave threat posed by the Soviet Union's new strategy of economic and ideological warfare. The Russians have grabbed the ball in this field while effectively accusing the United States of warmongering.

The strategy, of course, is aimed at those backward nations of Asia and Africa where the future of the world will be decided in the next few years. These countries not only possess the balance in manpower but in resources.

The average citizen of this country does not realize that the United States today imports almost 50 per cent of its basic raw materials. These are necessary to maintain our standard of living and to keep the wheels of our complex industrial economy turning.

The ultimate aim of the Communists is to deny us access to these materials, thus destroying our economy. The other aim, of course, is to grab almost inexhaustible markets.

Today because of communism the United States has lost one great former source of raw materials in China as well as its huge market. If all Asia falls to communism, the result would be catastrophic.

The basic aim of foreign aid is not to buy friends but to enable friendly nations to build up their economic and military strength to the point of resisting the temptation of communism. By helping them increase their own standards, we accomplish this purpose and also increase the potential for trade.

Studying the world picture from every angle, the Eisenhower administration—as did the Truman administration before it—has decided that wisely used foreign aid is good “peace insurance.”

The Senate should restore the cuts. The United States would make a sorry mistake to abandon the field just as the Soviets are moving in.

That Recurrent Rumor Is With Us Once More

That hardy perennial among business stories, the possibility of a new hotel for Atlanta, has blossomed again.

According to the Wall Street Journal, Conrad Hilton, one of the world's largest innkeepers, is preparing another expansion. Atlanta is one of the places the Hilton management has in mind.

The Hilton story seems authoritative. It also recalls occasional rumors that the Statler, Sheraton and other big chain operations are surveying the hotel situation here with a view to making it more competitive. And of course, there is Ben Massell, Atlanta's prime real estate developer, who again is reported on the verge of sponsoring a new hotel.

Atlanta has not had a new hotel in many, many years though there has been a commendable amount of renovating and adding to its existing ones.

A really first class new hotel would be quite a jewel in the city's crown. If there is any one thing that lends substance to the criticism that Atlanta is nothing but an overgrown country town, it is the shortage of modern hotels.

Old Steam Locomotive Would Be Park Asset

The City of Atlanta has moved a step nearer to joining the 275 communities in the nation which have modern steam locomotives on display in parks and museums.

The city's parks committee, a unit of the aldermanic board, has asked Mayor Hartsfield if he won't ask the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. for one of its steam locomotives. The committee laid down a proviso that the engine be placed on display at no cost to the city.

If and when the L&N donates an engine, it would be asking too much perhaps to expect the railroad to set it up in a park.

However, the installation should not be too difficult to manage. A sidetrack already existing at Piedmont Park makes that site seem a logical and feasible one. Interested trainmen and “always-wanted-to-be” trainmen no doubt would contribute toward paying the cost of the project.

Incidentally, the engine will not necessarily be an “old” one. The NC&StL line has run a steam locomotive built in 1941 onto a siding in Nashville. The engine cost close to a million dollars. Today children get a million dollars worth of fun from climbing over it, under the escort of a retired engineer. The railroad gets valuable publicity.

Atlanta now has an “old” engine on display in the Texas at Grant Park. A 20th Century locomotive as a permanent museum piece will be an asset to the city's parks.

We hope the City of Atlanta and the L&N can work out the deal.

Adenauer Warns West The Reds Are the Same

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has earned great respect and admiration in this country. He is receiving the usual cordial welcome on his current visit, having received an honorary degree from Yale and a cordial reception in Washington.

Speaking from his close association with the situation, the chancellor warns the West that it must not relax “even for one moment” its vigilance against Soviet Russia. Present Communist tactics, he pointed out, are more dangerous than the former aggressive conduct of the Kremlin. The new rulers, despite their friendly talk, have shown no inclination at all to remove the main causes of tensions in the world.

Everywhere, Adenauer declared, the Soviets aggravate existing conflicts and endeavor to undermine the West's position. He warned of attempts to smash the “mighty protective shield of NATO” and to drive the United States out of Europe.

The chancellor cited the Russians' flat refusal to settle the question of reunification of Germany, a project that is the major objective of his government and of all Germans. His refusal to accept Communist proposals which would amount to making all Germany a Communist state thus far has received support from West Germans.

But Adenauer has political troubles growing out of this clamor for reunification. He must face the electorate next year and this will be the major issue. He continues to put his faith in NATO and American friendship. He also believes that the East Germans themselves will reject communism one way or another as soon as they can.

Chancellor Adenauer has great support and sympathy from the American people and their government. His steady course of friendship and cooperation with the West is the only alternative to making all Germany another Communist satellite.

A Salute to the Army On Its 181st Birthday

Today is the 181st birthday of the United States Army. The nation joins in a salute to its members and to those who contributed to its glorious past.

On June 14, 1775, the Continental Congress authorized 10 companies of riflemen. This was the beginning of the rugged Revolutionary Army which gained the country's independence and set the stage for the spectacular development of the United States.

The Army considers itself old and it is the oldest of the services. But in the span of history the Army and the nation it represents are among the youngest. In less than two centuries both have become representative of the greatest concentration of political, economic and military power on earth.

The Army itself often has been neglected. Except in times of emergency, it has been almost a skeleton force. Today it has greater strength than ever in peacetime, is better armed and equipped. It also has tremendous global commitments, something which its founders could not have foreseen 181 years ago.

Its men have fought in more than 100 campaigns, expeditions, occupations and wars. It stands today as an indispensable factor in the nation's defenses.

Warfare has changed greatly in the years since 1775. We have mounted our weapons on aircraft and on powerful ships at sea. But the Army's role continues and its men will continue to reflect the finest traditions of the service and the country they defend.

Cobb County Times

Lately in our county and city governments there has been an alarming trend toward rule-by-secret. Elected officials like to conduct business behind closed doors, with the public and the press barred.

Time after time courts have ruled these “star-chamber” proceedings illegal. However, by the time a court case is tested the meeting is over and the public still not informed.

At times, officials believe they have legitimate reasons for conducting public business privately. They fear controversy that might put them on the political spot.

An informed public is the best guarantee that our fundamental freedoms will be preserved.

‘Hawk Believed Menace To Be Shot on Sight Despite Protests From Professed Bird Lovers’

Murrayville — We saw in your paper some time back where we got a lot of criticism for shooting hawks. We always welcome criticism.

We noticed one man told how many rats one red-tailed hawk caught in one day. We never saw a red-tailed hawk or even heard of one before.

The kind we have killed catches nothing but rabbits, quail, squirrels and chickens. We have seen three or four dead chickens under one tree where those monsters had dropped them.

Why, bless your life, one man and his wife had been married eight years and did not have a baby in their home until we had killed 20 of those monsters. They lived near a creek with a lot of big trees around their house.

Just to show our critics we are bird lovers, we have a huge canebrake in our back yard. Small birds of various kinds roost in this canebrake. We would not harm one.

We don't think shooting mean hawks is half as bad as some of those so-called sportsmen coming out with their fine dogs and guns and running down and killing the last quail of a covey. We don't like that but have seen it done more than once.

We hope to get more hawks this fall.

Says Army Has Kept Faith With Reservists

Atlanta — The Army has not broken faith with its reservists. The men who are being discharged are those whose term of service by law is near expiration. Not only can those who wish to reenlist in a unit do so but we desire very much that they reenlist immediately.

Each one of them is personally encouraged to take an active part in the reserve program and if he does so can continue until he is eligible for retirement benefits.

It is true that neither our Army nor our country receive any benefit from the membership in the reserve of a man who can't or won't participate in a training program.

Outcries Against the Actions Of Supreme Court Increase

The uproar against the U.S. Supreme Court is gaining momentum and the noise is coming from other sections of the country as well as from the South. The high court reversed the long-standing “separate but equal” doctrine in cases involving transportation, schools and public parks.

Since then it has encroached further on the rights of states in areas not related to the racial question.

The Supreme Court struck down a Pennsylvania state law dealing with sedition, declaring this to be an area reserved for the federal government.

The court has ruled that Nebraska's “right to work” law had no effect on railroad employment.

What the Supreme Court is proclaiming is that when Congress passes a prohibitory or permissive law in a particular field, the provisions of state constitutions on the subject are automatically repealed.

There was a time when “states' rights” was more than just a hollow term. Indeed there were times that the Supreme Court went to ridiculous extremes to keep from infringing on the rights of states.

The courts of the past were guided by the Tenth Amendment which states that “The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.”

Today the nation's leading authorities on constitutional law are seriously pondering the question: “Just what rights are left to the states?”

Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia recently introduced a bill which would clearly define the rights of states to legislate in fields where Congress has passed laws.

Other bills before Congress provide that the court could not legislate upon the purely internal affairs of the states including the operation of schools.

Prospects for passage of some of these measures, particularly the one introduced by Rep. Smith, appear to be better now than at any time in recent years.

As to the morale of the active Army reserve, it is excellent. Possibly you should have had a reporter interview a cross section of the active reservists throughout the state before making your statement.

Do Modern Weapons Point to Total War?

Washington, D.C. — I predict that the next war will be a total war in which each and every weapon known to man will be used on all objectives.

I think the weapons will be the H. A. thorium, cobalt, magnesium, napalm and white phosphorus bombs, land, sea and air mines, flame throwers, paralyzing gas bombs, radioactive dust and germ bombs.

I think in consideration of the foregoing that all people should work for peace.

What's the Reason For Not Praying?

Is there a more amazing statement in the entire Bible than this one?—“Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and he that knocketh it shall be opened” (Matt. 7:7, 8). Do you know Hugh Price Hughes' story called “The City of Everywhere?” He arrived in the city one cold morning.

As he got off the train, the station was like any other station with the crowds and redcaps, except everybody was barefooted. They wore no shoes. He noticed the cab driver was barefooted. “Pardon me,” he asked the driver, “I was just wondering why you don't wear shoes. Don't you believe in shoes?”

“Sure we do,” said the driver. “Why don't you wear them?” asked the man.

The driver replied, “Ah, that's the question. Why don't we wear shoes? Why don't we?” At the hotel it was the same. The clerk, bellboys, everybody was barefooted. In the coffee shop he noticed a nice-looking fellow at a table opposite him who also was barefooted. He said, “I notice you aren't wearing shoes. I wonder why? Don't you know about shoes?”

The man replied, “Of course I know about shoes.” “Then why don't you wear them?”

“Ah, that's the question,” said the man. “Why don't we? Why don't we?”

After breakfast he walked out on the street in the snow but every person he saw was barefooted. He asked another man about it and pointed out how shoes protect the feet from cold. The man said, “We know about shoes. See that building yonder? That is a shoe manufacturing plant. We are proud of that plant and every week we gather there to hear the man in charge tell about shoes and how wonderful they are.”

“Then why don't you wear shoes?” The man replied, “Ah, that's the question.”

Dr. Robert E. Goodrich Jr. tells the above story in his book, “What's It All About?” then he adds, “Don't we believe in prayer? Don't we know what it could mean to our lives? . . . Of course we do; we know about prayer. Then why don't we pray? Ah, that's the question. Why don't we pray? . . . Why don't we?”

Some would say we don't pray because we lack faith or because we don't know how to pray or because there are things in our lives which make us ashamed to face God. None of these are the real reasons. Why don't we pray? I must answer that tomorrow?

President To Decide Course Once Again

WASHINGTON—Out of the weary, anxious vigil at Walter Reed Hospital last weekend, some very significant facts now have emerged:

There is increasing uncertainty that President Eisenhower will run for a second term. The public statements by some Republican politicians acting as if nothing had happened and suggesting that everything will soon be as it was before are wishful and misleading.

It is no service to Eisenhower to pretend that he won't have to reconsider very fully and very earnestly his post-heart attack decision. He will.

Those who know the soul-searching which led up to the President's announcement agree that the facts, as Eisenhower will see them, are these:

1. The President is very mindful of the escape clause which he carefully attached to his willingness to run again.

2. His new illness and operation will raise the profoundest doubts in Eisenhower's own mind as to whether he can adequately discharge the heavy, exacting duties of his office another four and a half years.

3. The President will now have to go through the same kind of inner self-examination to decide all over again whether he can conscientiously run.

4. Eisenhower will rest his own decision on his own feelings about his own strength and stamina and not primarily on the doctors' report that he can “safely” carry on.

I am not suggesting that the President's second decision may not in the end be the same as his first — that is, yes, he feels up to it.

It is to Eisenhower's credit that the nomination again becomes a question mark.

As one White House aide, who knows the President as well as any and better than most, put it to me: “Of course, the President will have to test himself again. He won't leave it to others to bring it up. He'll bring it up himself and he can't possibly know whether he should run until he has tested himself again fully.”

This means that the favorable medical reports, however encouraging, are only permissive. The doctors may be less influential than before. The decision will be Eisenhower's and those who are closest to the scene know that it is going to have to be made all over again.

Jim Hagerty Proves Ability Once More

WASHINGTON—In his role of White House press secretary Jim Hagerty keeps newspapers, radio and television informed about the activities of President Eisenhower, both official and personal. Everybody who deals with him agrees that he does an excellent job and often under physical and nervous strain, as in the current emergency of the President's illness.

A devoted friend and admirer of the President, Jim naturally leans toward as favorable a picture as possible of the President and his day-by-day performance in his office.

That is normal and expected and is what his predecessors did for Presidents Harry Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover and on back as long as there have been press officers for the White House, which is not too far back.

Like those others, too, Jim is ever mindful of the best interests of the party which he serves, which happens to be the Republican Party. His experience in practical politics is extensive.

Before his present assignment, he was press secretary for Gov. Dewey of New York and when Dewey was running for president, Hagerty widened the knowledge of national politics he had gained as a political reporter for the New York Times.

All of that is a necessary prelude to the report that in all particulars and on all counts he has done so nicely in his latest emergency assignment that he has produced the picture of a President on the alert, handling matters of state, making big decisions even while still abed except for a few steps each day, still not taking regular nourishment and still with a tube down his throat.

Where deep friendship is involved as that of Hagerty for the President, this is understandable and perhaps excusable and it is condoned also among politicians.

HOW AMERICA WILL KEEP ITS LEAD IN ATOMIC-ELECTRIC POWER

This is the way nations rate in nuclear reactors built or planned:
(all types and for all purposes)

	Completed as of 1956	Building or planned
U. S. A.	55	35
Great Britain	7	23
Russia	6	11
All others	10	14

In the past few months, the question has been raised, "Is America behind in the development of atomic-electric power?" The full facts answer "No." And America's electric light and power industry, in full co-operation with other organizations in this country engaged in atomic research and development, will do its part to make sure the answer remains "No."

At the present time, for instance, the Atomic Energy Commission, the electric companies and various other organizations have built, or are building or planning, more nuclear reactors than all other nations combined. More in number and scope—90, representing many reactor designs. And more promising for the future—for every reactor today is largely experimental, built to provide research in and knowledge of a whole new science and a new technology.

Electricity from the atom

Much of this research and knowledge has a direct bearing on one of the atom's greatest promises, the production of electric power. Far more experimentation will be required to prove which of the many types of reactors are most efficient, most workable and most economical. But we are well on the way to finding out.

Foremost in this experimentation is the basic and comprehensive reactor research program led and carried on by the Atomic Energy Commission. This research puts theories to the test, discovers how to design and build various types of reactors, uncovers basic problems and possibilities, and provides the vital first tries that are necessary before larger and better reactors can be designed and built. Already, these tests are separating the most promising from the least.

The next step

From this basic research—some of which is also being done by America's independent electric companies—the next step is big, full-size commercial atomic-electric plants. That step is being taken, too. The electric light and power companies already have 7 of these large atomic-electric plants on the way or under study. They, too, are experimental as far as their reactors go—for they include a number of different kinds of reactors and various designs. Until they provide operating experience, no one will know which types are most useful for further development.

The problem of producing electricity from the atom was solved long ago. But so long as we have adequate supplies of coal, oil and gas that can produce low-price electricity, it would be wasteful for America to build large numbers of atomic-electric power plants which could produce electricity only at high cost. Our objective should be economy and efficiency in reactor design and construction, without passing up any promising designs in our search. Progress toward this objective is being made.

Electric companies build

More than 300 million dollars from individual investors is involved in the planning and construction of atomic-electric plants and related research. A total of 44 electric companies is participating in building these reactor plants. In so doing, they are drawing on their industry's 75-year experience in producing electricity from other fuels.

To speed this program still further, America's independent electric companies are forming a special task force on atomic-electric reactors. The function and nature of this new group is described in the box below.

Still in testing stage

Because the U. S. today has plenty of electric power and plenty of conventional fuels, the wise program is to test many reactors, types and designs and select the best. It will help assure our continuing lead in atomic development over countries which are building atomic-electric plants with today's limited knowledge because they so desperately need electricity at any price.

Information like this about our nation's atomic-electric power program is important to you and others interested in the welfare of their country. It is important to you as a citizen and as an electric customer. Because this is so, reports of progress in atomic-electric power will be brought to you from time to time by America's Independent Electric Light and Power Companies.*

*Names on request from this newspaper

Where do we go from here?

Atomic-electric power is in its infancy. So varied are its possibilities that special measures must be taken to see that none of the atom's promises will be overlooked.

To make sure of this, America's electric light and power companies are forming a technical appraisal task force to evaluate and stimulate research, development and construction that will advance the promise of economical and practical electric power. This task force will be composed of some of the nation's leading nuclear engineers and scientists, as well as leaders in the electric industry.

The findings of this task force, as well as all other experience and knowledge of America's power companies in the field of nuclear reactors, will be shared with any group dedicated to the objective of maintaining American leadership in atomic-electric power.

Miami News Building New $5 Million Plant

MIAMI, June 13 (UP)—Ground was broken today for the new $5-million-dollar home of the Miami Daily News. The occasion was the 60th birthday of the newspaper.

"We will erect the most modern and efficient plant, we believe, in the United States," News Vice President James M. Cox Jr. said.

The new building, to be erected on a 6½ acre site on the Miami River, should be ready for occupancy in the summer of 1937.

Girl Politicians Wage Hot Contest for State Offices

By WARREN BOSWORTH

Political fever hotter than a pot-bellied stove in January swept across Girls State Wednesday as nominees for governor and other state offices swung their campaigns into high gear.

Once again another ballot battle was being steamed up between the Nationalists and the Federalists. So far the Nationalists have held a slim upper hand. But that, the Federalists say, won't hold true in Thursday's elections.

The Federalists have nominated Pat Hanes, a College Park High junior, to oppose the Nationalists' Emily Moye, of Atlanta's Murphy High, for the governorship.

Neither is a rookie in the intricate workings of Girls State politics.

But the governor's race hasn't captured the whole show by a long shot. Elections for lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, state treasurer, and seven seats on the supreme court must be decided at the polls.

Following Wednesday's party conventions, candidates and their backers went on a wild politicking spree.

Impromptu rallies, which seem to spring up at the spur of the moment, with speech making under the trees and in the hallways, became the order of the day as both parties made their bid for the 110 votes.

Following is a list of candidates for state offices:

4-Man Trumpet 'Trio' in Pops Sunday

By DON BAIRD

What happens when an understudy to a trumpet trio becomes indispensable?

That's easy . . . the trio becomes a quartet.

Such is the success story of 16-year-old Ronnie Satterfield, who will make his debut with three other Southwest High trumpeters at the third Atlanta Pops Concert Sunday afternoon.

Their appearance will be another move by maestro Albert Coleman to feature in each of the five concerts young talent chosen through statewide auditions.

The group started as a trio with Ronnie geared to play any part as a substitute. However, when instructor John Dillard felt Ronnie had played his scrub role with finesse, he proceeded to write a fourth part.

As a trio, the group entertained at various Atlanta occasions, and

R. A. Garland Enters Fulton Judge's Race

Reuben A. Garland, 53-year-old Atlanta attorney, announced his candidacy Wednesday for the Fulton Superior Court judgeship now held by John L. Tye Jr.

In an official announcement, Garland said he felt that his "long experience at the bar will merit your approval when you go to the polls in the September Democratic primary." The primary is scheduled Sept. 12.

The attorney, who served as assistant Fulton solicitor general in 1944 and 1945, pledged that when elected "I shall conduct the court with dignity for the benefit of the public who seek redress of their wrongs . . ."

His official announcement said that he is an active trial lawyer and that his clients come from all walks of life. "Throughout the span of my professional career I have fought for the oppressed, the innocent, the unfortunate victims of automobile collisions, those who wanted wrongs corrected in courts of justice."

A graduate of old Atlanta Boys' High School and the University of Georgia Law School, Garland is a member of the Second-Pence de Leon Baptist Church, Chi Phi Fraternity, the American, Georgia, Fulton County and Atlanta Bar associations, the American Judicature Society, Atlanta Historical Society and Atlanta Writers' Club.

He is past president of the Fulton County Lawyers' Assn., Inc.; past president of the Georgia State Society of Sons of the American Revolution; past president, North Side Civic Club; past exalted ruler, Buckhead Elks Lodge; past district deputy grand exalted ruler of Georgia Elks and past vice president general of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Garland and his wife reside at 3657 Peachtree Rd., N.E. They have two sons.

Wife's Death Laid to Mate At Lafayette

LAFAYETTE, Ga., June 13 (UP)—Walker County officers Wednesday launched a search for a 61-year-old man accused of killing his wife by tossing kerosene on her burning body, causing her to "go up like a torch."

County Deputy Gene Dean said a warrant charging George W. Keith of Lafayette with murder in the April 3 death of his attractive 44-year-old wife, Mrs. Mildred Gaynelle Keith, was issued Wednesday to climax a long investigation by Agent Jim Hillin of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation.

Dean said Keith, a slight, graying man, is accused of setting fire to Mrs. Keith while she slept in their small frame home about four miles north of here early on the morning of last Feb. 21. The home was destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Keith died in Tri-County Hospital at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., 43 days after the fire from severe burns on the entire upper part of her body.

Earl Self of Summerville, Ga., solicitor general of the Lookout Mountain Judicial Circuit, who authorized the taking of the murder warrant, said the motive for the slaying apparently was "insane jealousy."

Sale of Dorm To Tech Seen

Special to The Constitution—WASHINGTON, June 13—Sale of a three-story dormitory to Georgia Tech would be authorized in legislation written Wednesday by the House Banking Committee.

The dormitory, at the corner of North avenue and Techwood drive, is presently owned by the Public Housing Administration. Tech has been trying for some time to buy the property but has balked at the PHA's price of $375,000.

The provision on the dormitory was written into legislation at the request of Rep. Paul Brown of Georgia. It would permit sale at the "fair market value of the land."

Rep. James C. Davis has pending in the House a bill which would provide sale of the building and the adjoining lot to Tech for $109,000.

CITY HALL NEWS

3 Largest High Schools
Given New Principals

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Miss Ira Jarrell, school superintendent, Wednesday assigned new principals to Atlanta's three largest high schools.

The new executives will replace principals named as area superintendents in revamping the administration of city schools in accordance with the Ivey report.

Roger Derthick, president of the Atlanta Public School Teachers Assn. and principal of Cleveland Avenue Elementary School, will become principal of Grady High School, the system's largest school. Derthick succeeds Dr. Rual W. Stephens, who has been elected superintendent of area No. 6.

William Bryce, principal of Margaret Mitchell Elementary school, will be principal of North Fulton High School, the second largest school in the system. Bryce replaces Warren Jackson, newly named superintendent of area No. 3.

James Fain, principal at Ragsdale Elementary School, is the new principal of Sylvan Hills High School, the third largest school in Atlanta. He succeeds D. W. Heidecker, who has been named superintendent of area No. 2.

Right-of-Way Study

City Land Agent Harry Andrews is attending the annual convention of the American Right-of-Way Assn. at Houston.

He said he hopes to learn how to expedite acquisition of right-of-way for Atlanta's huge expressway system, but expressed doubt concerning quicker purchases unless state laws are changed. He took along aerial and other photographs of Atlanta area expressway developments, saying the city has expended $13 million for right-of-way for highway development since 1946.

On Planning Petitions

The joint Atlanta-Fulton county planning board Wednesday approved 10 petitions, deferred action on five, and deferred three others. Among the deferred measures was a use permit for erection of a $250,000 mortuary in Greenwood Cemetery.

Other deferred positions affected sites on Gordon road, SW, near Lamar avenue; Piedmont avenue and Baker street, NE; McDonough boulevard and Marcy street, SE, and sites on Gordon road, Peyton road, Kelso drive and Stonehurst place. Adversely affected petitions affecting properties at North avenue and Nutting street, NE; Flynn and 14th streets, NW, and Magnolia and Ashby streets, NW. All other petitions were approved.

Farrar Pays
Fee for Fulton
Sheriff Race

George T. Farrar, 41-year-old Atlanta cattleman and livestock auctioneer, qualified Monday to seek election as Fulton County sheriff.

Farrar, who resides at 2380 Campbellton Rd., SW, warned in announcing his candidacy that his "opponents should best not contemplate conducting their campaign from a rocking chair."

Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes has already qualified for election to a full four-year term and County Warden Carl Mills also has announced he plans to seek election as sheriff.

Farrar stated that he will, if the people of Fulton County see fit to elect him, "serve them energetically and tirelessly to uphold the law, but will ever be mindful that justice should be tempered with mercy; and that any person coming under the jurisdiction of the sheriff will be treated with the utmost courtesy."

A lifelong resident of the county, Farrar attended East Point public schools, graduated from Russell High School and attended Emory University. He formerly was with the Central of Georgia Railroad before going into the livestock field.

Farrar is a member of the Fulton County Cattleman's Assn. and the Fulton County Dairy Assn. He has been associated for many years with a number of local cattle firms. He is a mem-

Billy Joe Whitaker, who was arrested Sunday in connection with the confiscation of 13 ounces of heroin valued at an estimated $30,000, has been bound over to the Fulton County Grand Jury on a $5,000 bond, police said.

Whitaker, 29, of a Capitol avenue, SE, address, was tried in Recorder's Court Wednesday.

Adenauer Will Visit Ike For Bedside Parley Today

time this morning was taken up in signing his name—27 times. His signature was required on a long list of items ranging from bills passed by Congress to nominations, from executive agreements with other countries to messages to private organizations.

Probably the major item in the long list was an official proclamation putting into effect reduced tariffs on hundreds of items of imports. This proclamation resulted from the recent meetings at Geneva of the contracting parties to the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade.

The Geneva negotiations and today's proclamation were the culmination of the long, and sometimes bitter, fight waged by the President last year to drive through Congress a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Law.

The major nomination approved by the President was that of Victor R. Hansen of California to be assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division. Hansen is a judge on the Los Angeles Superior Court. If confirmed by the Senate, he will succeed Stanley N. Barnes, who has been confirmed as a circuit court judge.

The bills signed by the President were headed by the $424,664,100 Interior department appropriation bill. Another measure would set up a new program of government mortgage insurance for key civilian workers at military installations. The housing problem for scientists at Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, where much guided missile research is being done, sparked the bill.

Sherman Adams, the President's chief staff assistant, headed the group which visited the President during his working session. Adams supplied the President with a shortened version of the regular morning White House briefing on world events.

Then Gerald P. Morgan, the White House counsel, and Col. Andrew Goodpaster, staff secretary, entered the President's bedroom with the bills and papers to be signed. After the session was over the President spent about five minutes dictating to his personal secretary, Mrs. Ann Whitman.

The President did his work while sitting up in bed. The head end of the bed was cranked up, and a hospital table was added for the President to work on. Hagerty said again today that "no politics was discussed."

The evening medical bulletin said the President had rested and slept most of the afternoon. He took his walking exercises twice this morning and was again supported lightly.

The President's blood pressure, temperature, respiration and pulse continued to be "essentially normal."

Ike Must Prove Need For Aid, Senators Say

ing all the members of the party hierarchy signed the manifesto. Knowland, as the Republican leader, volunteered no comment on the incident. Asked about it, however, he made it plain that he thought the all-out Eisenhower forces had acted unwisely and that he wholly disapproved their declaration.

"I was not in on it," he pointed out. "I was not previously consulted. I feel it is quite unwise to have partisan statements, particularly at this juncture when the (Senate) Foreign Relations Committee had not had time fully to examine the question."

MISINTERPRETATION

"Too, there is always the danger of misinterpretation in the thing of this sort; it might be inferred that all who did not sign were against foreign aid."

The Foreign Relations Committee spent two hours this afternoon in closed session examining an administration witness, E. Perkins McGuire, with particular emphasis on the House cut in military assistance. This reduction was one billion dollars from the three billion dollars sought by the President. An additional $109,000,000 in economic aid was stricken by the House.

The effect on the committee of the testimony of McGuire, a deputy assistant secretary of defense, seemed in dispute. Knowland indicated a general satisfaction with it and intimated that it was an example of the series of strong justifications that he hoped would continue.

GEORGE LESS IMPRESSED

The powerful Democratic chairman of the committee, Sen. George of Georgia, plainly was less impressed. George walked from the meeting with the comment:

"They (the administration) are making a case, but it is a little hard to interpret it. I can't say, at the moment, whether we are more or less confused."

George, the principal Democratic foreign policy spokesman, is taking the lead for the administration on the issue.

He has made no secret of his groes would automatically cut off state funds to the college.

The University System already had a regulation requiring all applicants for admission to submit the signatures of two sponsoring alumni and the county clerk or ordinary of the applicant's home county.

One new regulation would permit an applicant in a county of more than 100,000 population to submit the signature of a third alumnus in lieu of the county clerk or ordinary.

However, that alumnus would have to be one on a list designated by the president of the alumni association to assist in selecting students of "character, aptitude and ability."

Another new regulation would empower the president of any unit of the system to refer an application to the Board of Regents for assignment. He could do so if he believed that the educational needs of the applicant could be best met at some other institution in the system.

The new screening program to be set up under the direction of Dr. Moore also will serve to keep enrollment in bounds by limiting admissions to better qualified students. It will not be ready before the fall quarter, however.

In other actions Wednesday, the Regents approved building plans for a new $274,000 building at Middle Georgia College in Cochran and a new $125,000 building at Albany State College.

The University of Georgia was authorized to establish an off-campus center at Albany as an expansion of its continuing education program.

Nursing courses at Georgia State in Atlanta were authorized insofar as the program may be financed under the college's existing budget. The program would be directed by the school of nursing of the Medical College at Augusta.

An additional allocation of $10,000 to the Negro graduate education fund was authorized to take care of approved applicants until July 1, 1956 and increase the total allocation from $250,000 to $260,000.

A committee was instructed to ask Gov. Griffin for an extra $121,499 to acquire land, building and equipment for the Coastal Plain Experiment Station at Tifton.

"Not now Son...
I'm busy"

When a father fails to take the time to listen to his son's problems, he is inviting serious consequences.

For a growing youngster needs the advice, the counsel and affection of his Dad.

Wise fathers make the time to talk... to teach... to help mold the boy into the man.

Even more important, a good father teaches by example. He lives the way he wishes his son to live in the future... a reliable, respected man—fulfilling his duties as a good neighbor and a responsible citizen... exercising self-restraint and moderation in all things.

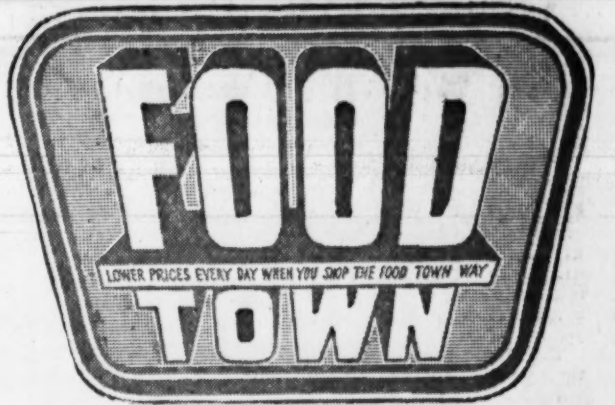

The intelligent and temperate life must certainly include moderation in the use of whiskey. That is why The House of Seagram would like to point out again that fine whiskey is a luxury... to be used moderately... at the proper time... and always with common sense.

Severin of Atlanta after Dr. Severin had been named "Veterinarian of the Year" during the association's annual convention here this week. Atlanta Attorney Is Indicted In $2,443 Tax Evasion Case

An Atlanta attorney was indicted by a federal grand jury here Wednesday on charges of attempting to evade $2,443.16 in income tax on his and his wife's joint 1951 and 1952 returns.

G. Eugene Ivey of a North Decatur address, is charged in a two-count indictment with reporting joint net income of $2,183.92 for the year 1951 and $2,652.29 for the year 1952. The amounts should have been $8,348.86 and $7,158.64, the indictment stated.

U.S. Attorney James W. Dorsey said he would recommend that Ivey's bond be set at $2,000—"the usual amount for such tax evasion cases."

Also indicted Wednesday by the grand jury, which returned 23 true bills and one no-bill, were:

Yvon Pierre Marie Cheveau, Fairlawn, N.J., charged with scheming to defraud bereaved families by forwarding C.O.D. religious tracts in the names of recently deceased persons in hopes that the survivors would accept and pay for them without question. Cheveau is free under $1,500 bond.

John A. Smith and his wife, Mrs. Mary Lou Smith of a Jersey circle, East Point address, and Arthur B. Wilson Jr., Tucker, charged with operating a 1,500-gallon-a-day capacity moonshine still uncovered March 23 at the Smith residence by East Point police. All three are free under $1,000 bonds.

Albert H. Jolly, Benjamin Hall and Herman W. Cole charged with the possession of 270 gallons of non-tax-paid whisky seized April 17 three miles southwest of College Park. Hall and Cole are free under $1,000 bonds.

Jolly surrendered Monday to begin a five-year prison sentence imposed in federal court here Feb. 25, 1955, for a previous moonshine offense, officials said. The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the sentence April 6, 11 days before Jolly was picked up on the new charge.

Brince Manning Qualifies in Race For DeKalb Seat

Brince H. Manning Jr., Atlanta attorney, has qualified for nomination as DeKalb County commissioner from District 2 in the Sept. 12 Democratic primary.

A native of DeKalb County, Manning announced he would run on a platform of reduced taxes, creation of a juvenile authority, an adequate public parks system, better schools with additional qualified teachers as needed and extension of public utilities and roads throughout the county.

He lives with his wife, the former Miss Edith Dasher, and three children at 231 Martha Ave., NE. A graduate of the Atlanta public schools and the Woodrow Wilson College of Law, Manning is a member of the Druid Hills Methodist Church, the North Kirkwood Civic Club, the PTA, the Kirkwood Masonic Lodge, the Yaarab Shrine Temple and the Druid Hills Club.

Manning is a member of the DeKalb County Democratic Primary. He announced his platform would be one of integrity, good government, uniform taxation with equal representation, better roads and schools and making the county's business the

Elevator Episode Draws Pen Term

A Negro hospital orderly has been given an 18-month prison sentence for an attack on a white woman in a hospital elevator.

Fulton Criminal Judge Luther Alverson imposed the maximum assault and battery sentence on James Walton of 111 Bell St., NE, in connection with an attack on a woman visitor at Georgia Baptist Hospital. The woman said the Negro tried to kiss her in the elevator while only she and the orderly were in the conveyance.

Judge Alverson pointed out the Negro previously had been fined $52 in Atlanta Municipal Court for molesting a white woman.

When itching persists due to lack of natural skin oils, Resinol Ointment gives quick relief. Rich in lanolin, it oils and softens dry skin as its six medicaments soothe dry itching. 2-Way relief that brings long-lasting comfort.

Patrolman May Quit for Sheriff Race

Veteran Atlanta Patrolman M. Randy Dodd may resign a second time to run for sheriff of Fulton County.

Police committee members Wednesday night refused for a second time to grand Dodd a leave of absence to run for sheriff. When the committee declined the request four years ago, Dodd resigned. After his defeat, he applied for reinstatement. His petition was granted.

He appeared before the committee asking for a leave beginning June 24 and extending to Sept. 13, the day after the state primary. He told the committee he has nearly 25 years of service and that members of his family have served nearly 150 years on the Atlanta police force.

Although the committee declined the leave, there were indications that if he lost the race and applied for reinstatement, it would be granted. Police Chief Jenkins opposed the leave as a violation of policy.

The committee voted to revoke beer and wine sale permits for the Amvets Post No. 619 at 906 Hunter street, SW; The Three Duces, 137 Ashby street, SW; The Sanctum, 60 Fifth street, NW, and Andrew's Grill, 458 Humphries street, SW. It also voted to close Stockyard Grill, 1061 Marietta street, NW, for 35 days. Law violations were charged at all the establishments.

The committee also: 1. Heard a report that 17 members of the police department have applied for army training camp service in July.

2. Asked park concessionaires to tone down blaring phonographs which some teen-agers use for dancing. There were complaints especially from the Grant park pavilion.

3. Asked the aldermanic board's finance committee to set up $25,000 to repaint and repaint the exterior of the police station, and heard Mayor Hartsfield say he has held up temporarily a scheduled renovation and repainting of the interior of the station at an estimated $25,000 cost. The mayor said he had held the program up for further conferences with Judge Luke Arnold.

Sam Brown Seeks Commission Seat In DeKalb Race

Sam Brown, Decatur used-car dealer, has qualified for election as commissioner for District 2 in the DeKalb Democratic Primary.

He announced his platform would be one of integrity, good government, uniform taxation with equal representation, better roads and schools and making the county's business the Brown has been a businessman in DeKalb for the past eight years. He lives with his wife and three children at 1009 Rosedale Rd., NE. Brown is a member of the Methodist Church, the Masons and the Decatur Elks Club.

Baby Doing All Right; Swallowed Antiseptic

Robert Ollie Burke, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Burke of 459 Windsor St., SW, was reported in good condition by Grady Hospital officials after he swallowed a small quantity of Lysol.

Robert's mother said he climbed up on a chair in the bathroom and got a bottle of the disinfectant off of a shelf. The bottle did not have more than a teaspoon full of the liquid in it, she said.

Reward Gets No Clues in Bank Holdup

The $1,000 reward offered for clues in the attempted robbery of the Citizens Bank of Stockbridge Monday has failed to produce any clues, Georgia Bureau of Investigation officers said Wednesday.

Five counties, Henry, DeKalb, Rockdale, Clayton and Fulton still have lookouts placed for the car used in the escape of a bandit apparently wounded, the GBI said.

The reward is posted by bank president Charles T. Loder, who with his wife drove the robber from the bank in a gunfight which continued into the streets.

Loder pledged the reward to anyone for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the gunman. Last year a man with similar physical characteristics robbed the private bank of approximately $4,500, and remained uncaught.

Two possible clues did not pan out, the GBI and Henry County Sheriff E. Q. Owen said. One, a metal object believed to be a spent bullet from the robber's pistol, proved not to be a slug. The examination was made by the State Crime Laboratory.

The other possible clue, an abandoned car in Rockdale County, was found to belong to a Covington resident whose car had a blowout.

Sunday Beer Sale Suspends Permit

A Twin City beer dealer has had his state license suspended for 30 days for making Sunday sales.

State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams said Wednesday he suspended the retail license of James Beauford after investigating complaints against him. A state revenue agent talked Beauford into selling him four bottles of beer on Sunday, Williams said, after having first been refused.

Williams said, however, that he was "convinced Beauford had not made a regular practice of Sunday sales and for that reason the commissioner did not revoke the license."

S.C. Suit on Bus Seating Dismissed for 2nd Time

COLUMBIA, S.C., June 13 (AP)—A South Carolina federal judge dismissed for the second time today a suit against a segregated bus system, holding that a higher court did not make retroactive its ruling that "Jim Crow" seating is illegal.

Judge George Bell Timmerman Sr., father of South Carolina's outspoken segregationist governor, was a member of a court panel that twice upheld segregated seating before it was reversed by the U.S. Supreme Court in the historic 1954 decree.

The 75-year-old judge today granted the South Carolina Electric and Gas Co.'s motion to throw out a $25,000 damage suit by Sarah Mae Flemming after overnight "reflection." He had declined to grant the motion yesterday.

ORDERED FROM SEAT

The Negro woman had asserted her civil rights were violated when she was ordered from a seat in the front of a crowded bus where white persons ordinarily sit. Once before Timmerman had tossed out the suit but the plaintiff appealed to the U.S.

Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals which held that segregated seating was illegal in intra-state transportation and remanded the case for determination of damages.

The utility which operates the buses then sidestepped both lower courts to appeal to the Supreme Court which declined to intervene on grounds no judgment had been returned in the district or regional courts. The high court's action was interpreted in some quarters as a precedent against segregated seating on local transit runs. But technically it applied only to the Southeastern states in the fourth circuit.

NOT RETROACTIVE

Timmerman ruled that, although the circuit court repudiated the doctrine of separate but equal intra-state transportation facilities, the repudiation was not retroactive.

He said he did not believe the circuit court intended to place its approval on the "strange and un-American doctrine" that any court has the power to make retroactive laws. He held that the state law requiring segregation on buses was "valid and subsisting" when the plaintiff claimed her civil rights were violated, and "no person has a civil right to violate a valid and subsisting state law."

Both New Yorkers originally, their romance began with a mild argument in a retirement hotel where they met. They still live there and will have the 150 other residents as guests at the ceremony.

Paris' Envoys To U.S. and U.N. Shuffled

PARIS, June 13 (UP)—The Socialist-led French Cabinet today ordered a sweeping shakeup in the diplomatic service to bring younger men into top Foreign Ministry posts.

The shuffle, biggest since the end of World War II, will affect key home posts, the Washington Embassy, the U.N. delegation leadership and a number of European embassies.

A four-hour Cabinet meeting decreed the changes at the urging of Socialist Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, who leaves tomorrow for Washington talks with Secretary of State Dulles.

UPSETS TRADITION

The shakeup upset long French tradition that the nation's short-lived Cabinets should not tamper with the career administration service. It was ordered despite loud protests from center and right-wing parties and newspapers.

The reshuffle, however, was not expected to result in any changes in France's pro-Western foreign policy.

NAMED TO U.N.

Under the reorganization, Bernard Cornut-Gentil, 46-year-old governor of French West Africa was named chief of the French permanent delegation to the United Nations succeeding Herve Alphant, 49.

Alphant is scheduled to go to Washington to succeed Maurice Couve de Murville as ambassador. De Murville has been nominated as ambassador to West Germany.

Named to the top Foreign Ministry post is Louis Joxe, 55-year-old ambassador to Bonn. He will replace the current secretary general, Gene Massigli, 68, placed on the retired list.

U.S. Not Held to Terms Of Korea Truce Forever

By ANTHONY LEVIERO

WASHINGTON, June 13—The United States is not committed indefinitely to blind observance of some of the Korean truce terms. These limit the United States in reliance on weapons in Korea that have become obsolete while the Communists have built up strength.

Qualified sources who indicated the U.S. position stressed that there was no intention now to bring about a better balance between United Nations and Communist forces across the armistice line.

Ever since Communist truce violations were said to have occurred soon after the armistice was signed on Aug. 27, 1953, U.S. field commanders in the Far East have urged Washington to match the enemy's buildup. Contrary to reports, these recommendations have not been rejected. They are being kept under constant study.

If the United States should decide the Communist buildup had grown into an unacceptable peril for the U.N. command, many of the withdrawn American troops might be returned to South Korea. Moreover, those troops, it was said, might well go back with the most modern of weapons.

Truce provisions are supposed to restrict the introduction of weapons to a literal replacement of those in use by the two sides at the time of the armistice.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has made his views clear to the appropriate civilian officials. His position may be stated essentially as follows: There is no sense from the military viewpoint in letting U.S. forces deteriorate. It is a serious problem that needs solution. Political and psychological factors have to be considered.

Weight, Exercise Held Keys to Heart Health

CHICAGO, June 13 (AP)—A physician contended today that a program of exercise and weight control started early in life might enable the nation to lick "the disease of prosperity"—premature heart attacks.

Dr. Edward P. Luongo of Los Angeles said there is growing evidence that heart deaths in the young and middle-aged are linked, in a sense, to prosperity, easy jobs and leisure time.

There is also evidence, he added, that impending heart attacks might be caught "in time to institute preventive measures."

Dr. Luongo, medical director of the General Petroleum Corp. and chairman of the American Medical Assn.'s section on preventive and industrial medicine and public health, based his view on a detailed study of 100 heart cases in the 40-to-50-year-old age groups.

He made these points about his study in a report to the AMA convention:

1. There was no evidence in his study that smoking cigarettes or consuming alcoholic beverages played a role in causing coronary disease.

2. Two-thirds of the coronary group were overweight 10 to 15 years prior to their heart attacks compared with only one-third in a healthy control group of the same ages.

3. Seventy per cent of the coronary group showed no regular exercise patterns either at work or away from their jobs, compared with only 30 per cent in the control group.

He said that unless doctors meet the challenge of coronary disease, "we will find ourselves part of a civilization unprepared for the economic riches it fought so hard to obtain."

Asserting 82 per cent of the per-

Argentines Commute 200 Death Decrees

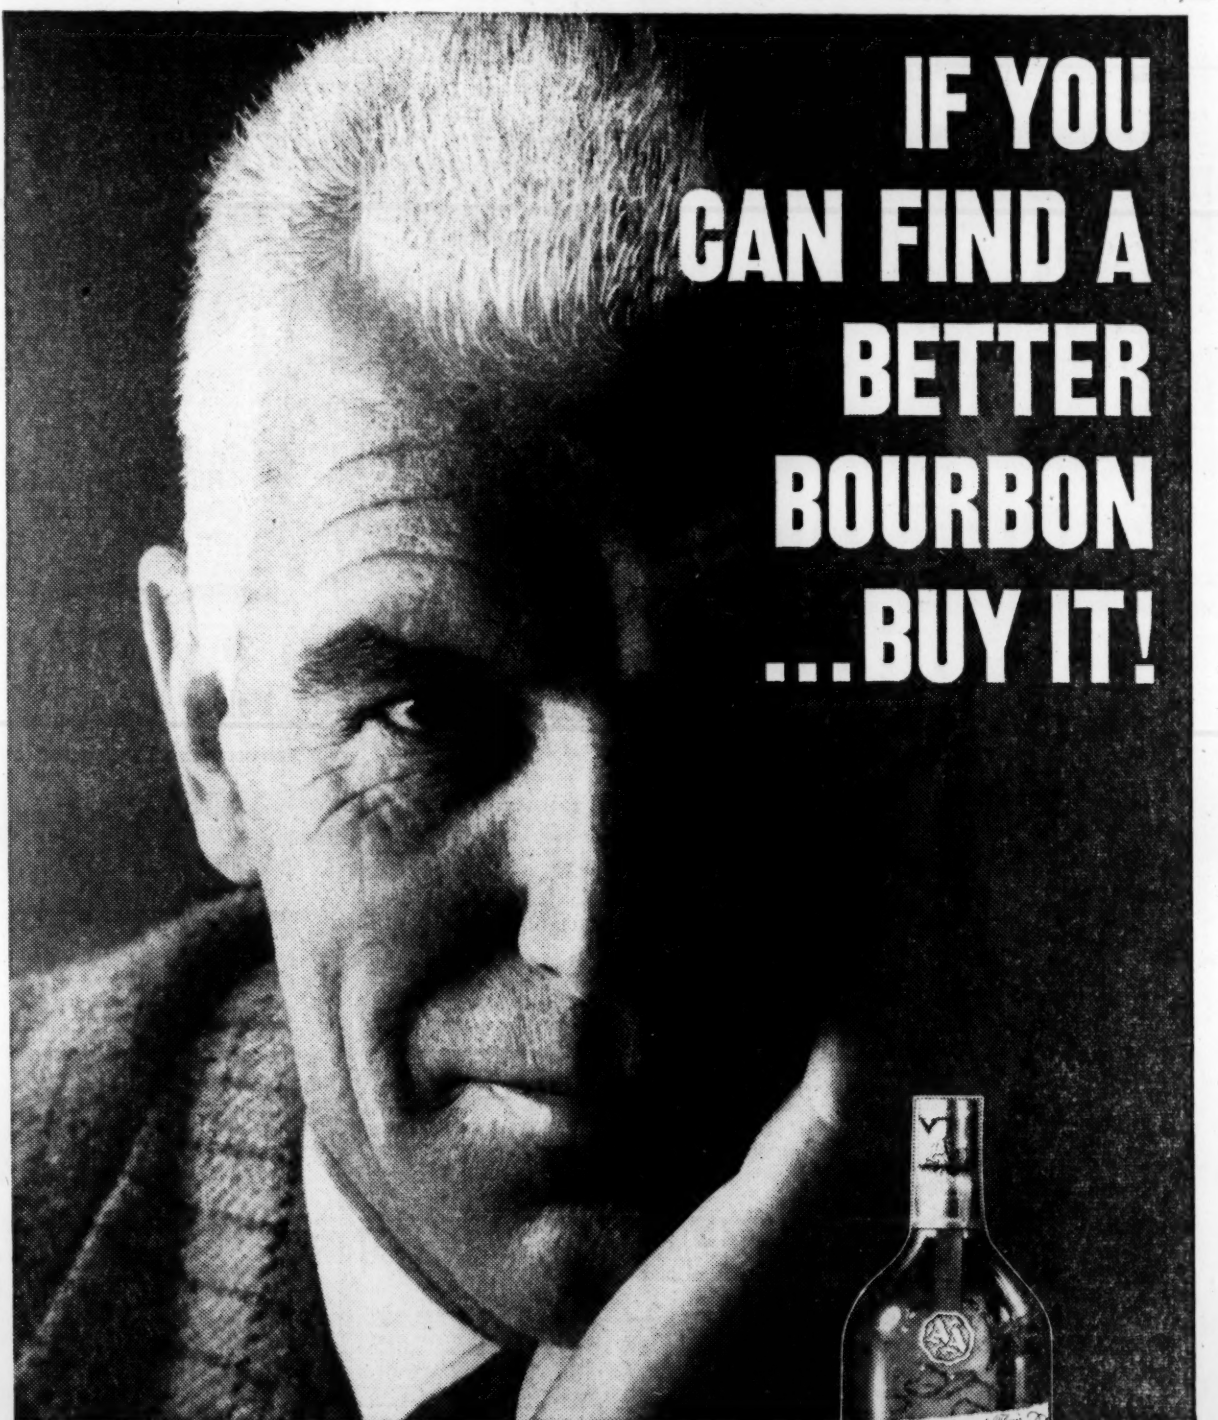

BUENOS AIRES, June 13 (AP)—President Pedro Aramburu today revoked the martial law clamped on Argentina in last weekend's bloody revolt. Pending death sentences were suspended.

A nationwide hunt went on for Gen. Raul Tanco and other leaders of an uprising blamed by the government on supporters of Juan D. Peron, ousted President.

Firing squads shot 27 military and civilian rebels, sources close to the government said. From 150 to 200 other death sentences were commuted to life. Press reports estimated at least 906 persons were arrested.

Newspapers carried pictures of four other badly wanted rebels, two retired majors, a noncommissioned officer and Capt. Jorge Oscar Morganti.

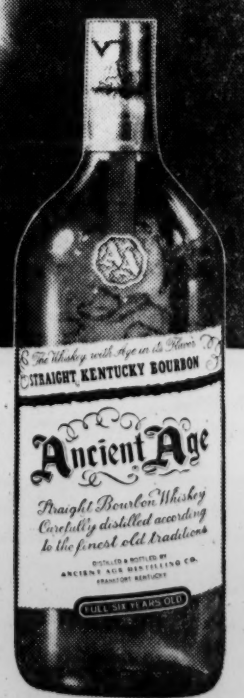

The government charged Communists as well as diehard supporters of Peron were behind the rebellion which flared Saturday night in Buenos Aires and three other major cities.

Cain Attack On Security Gets Results

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Former Sen. Harry P. Cain unloaded a fresh attack on the Eisenhower administration's loyalty-security program. A short time later one man was reoffered a job he had lost on security grounds, and senators pledged a quick investigation of other cases.

Cain, a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board, told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee he thinks there is "serious question whether we need a so-called loyalty program in this country."

CASE OF EX-GI

In appearing before the same group yesterday, Cain cited as an example of American "fascism" the case of an ex-GI who lost a Red Cross job after the Army raised security questions about him.

The Defense Department announced tonight that the Red Cross has "offered" to rehire the veteran, Irving I. August of Seattle.

Investigation of all the cases cited by Cain, a former Republican senator from Washington state, was promised by the Senate subcommittee.

PHONY LETTER?

One of these involves William Henry Taylor, an International Monetary Fund official who was first accused of being a Communist spy, then cleared.

Cain testified today that a letter used as evidence against Taylor "may have been fabricated."

Meanwhile, three virtually identical bills were introduced in the Senate today in an effort to offset a Supreme Court ruling Monday that the federal security program does not apply to nonsensitive jobs.

The bills, by Sens. Mundt (R-SD), Eastland (D-Miss) and McCarthy (R-Wis), would change the language of the security law to make it applicable to all federal positions—not just those in departments and agencies designated by Congress as sensitive.

RELATIVES PROTEST

In yet another development, relatives of eight soldiers came to Washington to complain that the GIs were threatened with less than honorable discharges for alleged pre-service activities and associations.

The women called on senators and reported meeting with Cain, who was described as "very interested."

Mrs. Theodore Bernstein of Trenton, N.J., wife of one of the soldiers, said the charges against the men range from contributions by parents to alleged subversive organizations to actual membership in such groups.

The soldiers are stationed at Ft. Dix, N.J.

16,000 Are Idled At Chrysler by Heat and Firing

DETROIT, June 13 (AP)—Nearly 16,000 Chrysler Corp. workers were idled today by a "heat strike" and another walkout protesting firing of two union stewards.

Some 6,000 were sent home from the Chrysler Kew-Forest and Jefferson plants when 13 painters walked off their jobs because of 92-degree heat.

Another 9,960 were idled at the Plymouth and Mack body plants when 1,100 trim department workers walked out protesting discharge of two United Auto Workers stewards last week.

The company said the stewards led a production standards dispute which resulted in a number of work stoppages Friday and Monday. There was no immediate union comment.

Zhukov Returns After Illness

MOSCOW, June 13 (UP)—Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov appeared today to have recovered from an illness that kept him from public events for almost three weeks.

Zhukov attended a Kremlin luncheon given yesterday by Soviet President Kliment Voroshilov in honor of the visiting Crown Prince of Yemen, Seif Al Islam Mohammed Al Badr.

Holland Vote Gives Socialists Top Hand in Government

AMSTERDAM, Holland, June 13 (UP)—The Socialist party won a clear victory in today's national elections to become the dominant partner in a new coalition government.

Strong gains made in the contest for a new lower house of Parliament gave the Socialists more seats in the chamber than any other party for the first time in Dutch history.

The Catholic Peoples party, the Socialists' strongest opponent, also made considerable gains, but less important ones than those made by the Socialists.

The Communists and the Protestant parties suffered heavy losses.

The election is expected to make no change in Holland's policies as a member of NATO, the European iron and coal pool, or other international bodies.

Premier Willem Dreus is expected to be asked to form a new government and likely will ask the Catholics to join in a coalition regime, as has been the practice since World War II.

The new 100-seat lower house will be composed of 34 Socialists, 33 Catholics, 10 Calvinist anti-revolutionists, 9 Liberals, 8 Christian-Historical Unionists, 4 Communists and 2 Political Reformists.

Unofficial complete returns gave the Socialists a 57,000 vote margin over the Catholic Peoples party. In 1952, the Socialists edged the Catholics by 16,000.

Voting is compulsory in Holland, and nearly 6 million voters went to the polls.

Communist vote dropped from 22 to 19 per cent in Amsterdam, the party's center of strength.

Tour of Russia Waits While Tito Rests at Seaside

MOSCOW, June 13 (UP)—Yugoslav President Tito arrived today aboard a Soviet cruiser of the Black Sea fleet at the Caucasian seaside resort of Sochi for a brief rest on his tour of the Soviet Union.

Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev, Tito's traveling companion on his tour this far, took his leave of the Yugoslav leader when he embarked on the Cruiser Frunze.

Tito rode his special "green train" to the port of Novorossiysk, where he boarded the cruiser. He landed at Sochi at 8 p.m.

Boy, 8, Third To Drown In Chatham in a Week

An 8-year-old boy on a church picnic drowned in a Savannah swimming pool Wednesday while dozens of playmates splashed nearby and a lifeguard stood watch. It was Chatham County's third drowning in six days.

County police identified the latest victim as Robert Irwin Tucker. His body was pulled from the Union Mission Camp pool after another youngster called to adults: "There's a boy down here who's been under water for 15 minutes."

George Akins Jr., son of the camp director, quoted several children as saying the boy had been "seeing how long he could stay under water."

"He apparently didn't struggle or yell for help," Akins said. "The lifeguard and other adults were at the edge of the pool and they said they were completely unaware anybody was in trouble."

The victim was one of two busloads of children from the Bull Street Baptist Church, which had rented the pool and other facilities of the camp for the picnic.

"Breathes there the man" who never said

"God rest the countless dead who fought ...

and like the men before them stand ... to give protection to

Garbage Collection in South Fulton By East Point To Be Discussed

A meeting has been planned for Thursday night to consider a garbage collection contract between East Point and Fulton County.

J. W. Lemon, director of health and engineering for Fulton County, was to meet with the East
Point sanitary committee and East Point Sanitary Supt. C. F.
Peace.

The proposed contract would provide for East Point to pick up garbage in unincorporated areas of lower Fulton County. Councilman W. O. Walters has said the collection might be extended for 1,000 homes as far south as Union City.

Although there is no organized garbage pickup in the unincorporated areas at the present, sanitary department officials said that some people dispose of their own garbage.

Probe Clears Mills in New Fish Deaths

A recent "minor fish kill" on the Oconee, Ocmulgee and Altamaha rivers was not connected with former major kills "blamed on the waste placed in the water by pulp plants," it was asserted Wednesday.

The opinion was continued in a joint statement released Wednesday by the Game and Fish Commission and the State Law department.

A joint investigation by the two departments, the statement said, showed that most of the dead fish were of the rough type, "although some game fish were found."

The statement said game and fish officials investigated the waters of the Oconee as far north as Macon and the Ocmulgee to Hawkinsville.

"It appears," the statement said, "... that the fish found in the Altamaha were decomposed ... and that the main kill occurred between Hawkinsville and Macon."

"This kill is not connected with the former major kills which were locally blamed on the waste placed in the water by pulp plants."

The statement noted that Rayonier, Inc., at Jesup is cooperating "in an attempt to solve both the causes of the kills and the complaints of taste" of fish in that area.

East-West Traditions To Blend at Rome Wedding of Koreans

ROME, Ga., June 13 (AP)—East-West traditions will blend in the marriage of a Korean couple at the West Rome Methodist Church at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

Officiating will be the couple's "American father," the Rev. J. Hamby Barton, Rome Methodist District superintendent. Mrs. Barton, whom the Koreans call their "American mother," will give the bride away.

The ceremony will unite pretty Bang-Kyung (Bonnie) Chung and Won Ho Roe, both winners of American college scholarships, and climax a romance that began in the bleak days of the Korean War.

Accenting the Eastern influence will be the bride's dress, sent to her from Korea by her mother who made it, and the maid of honor's dress, made by the bride. Both are in traditional Korean style, but the groom and his best man will wear Western dress.

The bride-to-be's sister, Hee Kyung (Helen) Chung, herself engaged to a Korean boy, will be maid of honor and vocalist.

Best man will be Hong Koo Lee, whose studies at Emory University were interrupted by tuberculosis but who soon will be discharged from Battery State Hospital.

Bonnie and Won, natives of Seoul, met in 1952 in Pusan, where both were engaged in work with the Christian Children's Fund. In December, 1953, they came over on the same ship on their American scholarships. Won has now an A.B. degree from DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., and Bonnie a degree in social work from Louisiana State University.

He will continue his study of international economics at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., while she will work with the Child Welfare department at St. Louis, Mo. Both are anxious to return to their native land as early as possible to help in the struggle for rehabilitation.

Child's Progress Up to Parents

By SMILEY BLANTON, M.D.

CHAPTER XI

A newborn infant is a bundle of paradoxes. Tiny, undeveloped, and ignorant of the world it has just entered, it nevertheless brings with it a biological structure perfected by millions of years of evolution, with the wisdom of the ages in each of its cells.

Physically it is so feeble that it cannot protect itself against the smallest enemy; yet the instinctual drives it inherits are as powerful as those of any jungle animal.

From the moment of its birth, however, the infant is compelled to regulate its instincts according to artificial restrictions found nowhere else in nature. It must learn to control its hunger instinct, its bodily evacuations, and its instinctual expressions of aggression.

And as the child grows older these instincts are curbed with increasing severity in proportion to their strength. On top of this, the normal sexual instinct is subjected to a multitude of taboos that restrict its free expression from childhood all through maturity.

RESTRICTIONS

Man has been willing to accept restrictions upon his primitive drives because in exchange he has won greater security of life. But the child knows nothing of this ultimate gain. It lives only for the immediate moment, and cannot be expected to balance future rewards against present sacrifices. It can undergo frustration and self-denial only as painful experiences that do violence to its deepest needs.

There is another obligation that is vastly more urgent and compelling for the child. It must grow! The child must use its instinctual energies to build bone and muscle, to expand its personality, to hew a place for itself in a strange and stubborn world. The child must first live before it can conform.

So every conscientious parent is faced with a dual task that might well challenge the wisdom of Solomon. He is called upon to gratify the child's instinctual demands, on the one hand, and to deny them on the other. He must both chain and liberate the child at one and the same time.

LESSON OF LOVE

As if this were not sufficiently formidable an undertaking, the parent is asked to work a further miracle! He is asked to transform the primitive and even savage child into a tolerant, cooperative, and loving human adult. For the lesson of love must be learned in the cradle if it is to be learned at all.

The human infant is not a simple, unknowing creature whose needs are fully satisfied merely by food and warmth.

Instead, it is an extraordinarily wise and complex organism, charged with imperious instinctual desires. When these primitive needs come into conflict with the external environment, embodied in the person of the mother or nurse, there is at once set off a chain of profound emotional reactions. The infant is acutely sensitive to the attitudes and behavior of those upon whose care its life depends, and it begins to build its characteristic patterns of love and hate the moment it is first touched following birth.

Adults have in the past been misled into assuming that the child, because it lacks the power of speech, also lacks powers of perception. The truth is that the human infant, like any primitive animal, is marvelously aware of everything that affects its welfare. It has the capacity to read what one may call our "muscle tensions"—those silent, but eloquent, betrayors of our true emotional attitudes.

In civilized life, we ordinarily must exert self-control over our emotions—whether of love, or hate, or fear. But no matter how great our self-restraint, we usually indicate our inner feelings by some kind of muscular movement, however faint or involuntary. We show our emotions by a movement of the eye, by the set of the muscles in our face, by the pitch, volume and rhythm of our voice.

TRANSMITS FEELINGS

It is through these muscle tensions that the mother transmits her true feelings to her child. And it is through her manner and attitude while caring for it that the child learns to develop security or fear. The infant registers her approval or disapproval as a seismograph catches the faintest tremor of the earth. The mother's confidence becomes the child's confidence; her antagonism, a shattering catastrophe.

So the parent is the great prompter who teaches the infant actor the main lines, gestures, and inflections of his future role. If the parent's demeanor in the prompter's box is one of steadfastness and love, the child will be encouraged to use his strength with skill and control.

But if the parent is an overbearing tyrant, or is confused in his directions, he

2 Georgians Get National Club Posts

Two prominent Georgia clubwomen are among the 100 women from 46 states who have been appointed by the executive committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to head departments, divisions and committees during the current two-year administration of the national women's organization.

Mrs. Chester E. Martin of Atlanta will serve as chairman of the Garden Division, American Home Department, of the General Federation, and Mrs. Horace B. Ritchie of Athens will serve as chairman of the federation's policy committee.

Both Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Ritchie have held the office of president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

The appointments were announced by Mrs. Robert I. C. Prout, newly elected president of the general federation.

Tobe Says Miracle Fibers In Travel Clothes

For your travel wardrobe, I want to suggest that you include at least one dress in a miracle fiber or a miracle blend fabric. By this I mean nylon, or orlon, or dacron, or any of these blended with silk, with cotton, or with each other.

And I'm glad to say that this year there are more dresses in fabrics such as this available than formerly, and much nicer ones at that. I like the silk-and-nylon or silk-and-dacron fabrics—especially in pleated dresses. These non-crush fabrics make pleats packable—a great boon to travelers, as nothing is more comfortable for hot weather traveling than a pleated skirt.

'Top Brass' Captures Top Day Lily Prize

By YOLANDE GWIN

Keeping up with the Joneses is going to be a hard job for hemerocallis growers from now on.

Top winner Wednesday at the fourth annual Hemerocallis Show was Mrs. Patrick Jones of Doraville, whose entry, "Top Brass," was judged the finest specimen entered. This marks the third time she has won top honors for her entry.

The show, sponsored by the Atlanta Garden Center, also saw another consistent winner at local flower shows, Mrs. T. E. Tolleson, collect the sweepstakes prize as well as the prize for the best collection in the show.

SILVER TROPHY

Mrs. Jones was given the Lester Perpetual Silver Trophy, as well as a silver prize and the tri-color ribbon of the Garden Club of Georgia for her entry.

Mrs. Robert H. Motter of Smyrna was in the national spotlight for she won the ribbon offered by the National Hemerocallis Society for the best seedling.

Hundreds of these day lilies were on exhibit as well as in arrangements which came in for classified awards.

DRIFTWOOD

Mrs. John S. Johnson Jr., of the Magnolia Garden Club, won a silver tray for her artistic arrangement which combined hemerocallis and driftwood. The arrangement, the first one she had ever made, was awarded the tri-color award of the Garden Club of Georgia.

"I made the arrangement Tuesday night," she said "I practiced the background material for days before I got what I wanted. Then Tuesday I made the final model. I used real lilies in what I would call the 'rehearsal' for the show. Of course, I had to replace the lilies with new ones for the actual show."

Day lilies (or hemerocallis) are just what the name implies—they bloom for one day.

FISHBOWL

Spectators were a bit surprised at one niche arrangement in the class called "Cooling and Charming."

The arrangement of the lilies was placed on a glass block fishbowl with two goldfish swimming around in the water. The entry, which won first place in its class, was made by Mrs. William Fawcett of the Bird and Flower Garden Club.

In the same class that perennial ribbon-winning grandmother, Mrs. L. L. McMullen, won again. She placed second.

"ORIENTAL CHARM"

Mrs. J. W. Landham of the Dogwood Club, Mrs. Ted Leigh of the Sherwood Forest Club and Mrs. W. Wailes Thomas of the Four Seasons Club were winners, in the order named, in the class for "Oriental Charm." Only second, third and honorable mention ribbons were given in this class.

In the class named "Field-Grown Fantasy," Mrs. E. W. Quin of the Woodbine Club was winner.

Mrs. G. W. Corley and Mrs. R. D. Stapp of the Sylvan Hills Garden Club won first honors for their arrangement which featured a "Growing Our Own" theme.

"Informal Terrace and Buffet Tables" featured a class for the use of the hemerocallis for a table decoration. Winner was the Northwood Hills Club with Mrs. Vincent Sauck and Mrs. J. C. Douglas taking the honors.

In addition to the wide variety of artistic arrangements in the show, there were also several non-competitive displays.

One was by Mrs. Hugh Lester, nationally known hybridizer, who showed some 25 very rare blossoms. Mrs. Lester served as chairman for the show. There also were collections from Mrs. L. C. Waldrop of Tallapoosa, Mrs. William P. Hill of Atlanta and Mrs. Jimmie Reeves of Gainesville.

A newcomer to local hemerocallis circles who served as a judge was a former Atlantan, Lupton Rainwater of Pensacola, Fla. He, along with a noted Georgia grower, Clyde Carter of Valdosta, and that local expert, Nelson Crist, were the masculine judges.

Bensons To Spend Summer in Mexico

Leaving yesterday to spend the summer in Mexico were John B. Benson, an English instructor at Georgia Tech; Mrs. Benson, their 2-year-old son, Stevie, and Bob Sullivan, who has just graduated from Oberlin.

Traveling by station wagon, the foursome carried a portable stove and a small ice box, for they will camp out at night along the way. They hope to arrive by week's end in Mexico City, where they have rented an apartment.

They will be joined on Monday by Mr. Benson's mother, Mrs. Charles G. Benson of Athens; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles G. Benson Jr., and the latter's 4-year-old daughter, Wendy, of Knoxville, who will fly to Mexico. The late arrivals hope to find an apartment near the Atlantans.

Mr. Benson and his mother plan to gather inspiration and do some writing while south of the border, and Mrs. Benson Jr., who is working toward a Ph.D. in English at the University of Tennessee, will do reading for her preliminary exams in the fall. As for the others, they will try to pick up some Spanish while enjoying the new country and getting acquainted with its customs.

A LONG-DISTANCE CALL from Riverside, Conn., on Tuesday night informed Mrs. Walter D. Taulman that her daughter, Mrs. John Maguire, and the Maguire children, John, Helen and Michael, will arrive today by plane for a visit, rather than later in the month.

Accompanying them on the plane will be Alex Wallau Jr. of Riverside, who will visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Huguley on Peachtree way. Mr. Maguire will arrive later to join his family as a guest of the Taulmans.

LT. PEEK GARLINGTON returned home last week after having been on duty with the U.S. Marine Corps in Korea and Japan since last September. He and I. M. Sheffield left Tuesday to spend a few days at Ponte Vedra, Fla., before he enters business with his father, J. P. Garlington.

MR. AND MRS. CLARENCE E. ELSAS will return today from New York where on Sunday they attended the marriage of their daughter, Miss Betty Ann Elsas, to Stephen S. Weisglass of New York.

THE OFFICERS' CLUB PATIO at Ft. McPherson will be officially opened for the season tomorrow evening when a trio of colonels and their wives entertain at a barbecue supper.

Hosts will be Col. and Mrs. H. H. Andrae, Col. and Mrs. Robert B. Moore and Col. and Mrs. W. M. Mueller. Clever invitations, beginning "What's Cooking?", have been sent to 125 of their Ft. McPherson and Atlanta friends.

BUNNY AND ANN ASHER are having the time of their young lives while visiting their grandmother, Mrs. William T. Asher, on Ponce de Leon. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Asher Jr. of Greensboro, N.C.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in eight years, Mrs. Robert M. Compton, the former Maisie Brown, will not ride in the Fulton-DeKalb Horse Show this year. However she arrived Tuesday from Augusta, where Lt. Compton is stationed at Ft. Gordon, to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Brown, and attend the show. Lt. Compton will join her here on Saturday.

MRS. ROY REAVES JR. and her son, Roy III, sailed last week on the Queen Mary, bound for Stuttgart, Germany, and a visit to the former's daughter, Mrs. L. N. Shade, and Capt. Shade who is stationed there with the Army. Mrs. Reaves and her son will visit Paris and London before returning to their home in Sherwood Forest.

MR. AND MRS. LEWIS GORDON have received word that their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Gordon, has been elected president of the Faculty Wives Club at Northeastern Louisiana State College, Monroe, La., where her husband is a member of the biology department. Mrs. Gordon is the former Catherine Tigner of Greenville.

Miss Eidson Is Married

The immediate families and other relatives gathered for the marriage of Miss Patricia Diane Eidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Eidson of Decatur, to Carl McLellan Bracewell which was solemnized at the country home of the bride's uncle, the Rev. L. C. Warren Jr., who officiated. Mr. Bracewell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bracewell of Atlanta.

veil cascading from a head-dress of jeweled medallions. A reception followed the ceremony in the recreation hall of the Warren residence on Cocklebur road.

Children's Progress Depends on Parents will train a player forever unsure of his basic cack. The child will not dare to construct his own interpretations, and will be able to learn the lessons of life only by rote.

Unable to believe in the strength of his own excellence, he will seek to attract attention to himself by paltry little devices: he will jockey for the spotlight, steal scenes, quarrel with his fellow players. If none of these avail, he may flee the stage at a crisis and thus ruin the performance altogether.

A wise parent, like a wise director, will therefore seek to avoid extremes in the handling of his charges. He will neither over-indulge the child's whims, nor will he insist on imposing his own rigid interpretations. His goal must be to let the child discover its own nature and capacities, and then lead it to use those capacities in their most effective relationship with the outside world.

CURBING IMPULSES

If many parents, despite their best efforts, fail to achieve this ultimate goal with their children, it is usually because they misconceive a central aspect of their role. Most of us understand fully the part we must play as good providers for our children, the measures that must be taken to protect them from danger, to fill their nutritional needs, and to assure their physical health and development as they move along the path to maturity.

But what throws most parents into confusion and bewilderment is the basic problem of curbing the child's primitive impulses. For in every child's unconscious mind lies the crawling beast of selfish aggression, of murderous hate, and of powerful sexual drives that will run rampant if not controlled.

The parent is the delegate appointed by civilization to tame these destructive forces. It is a mighty responsibility—yet most of us are given precious little equipment with which to carry it out!

BAFFLED BY CHALLENGE

No wonder many parents are baffled by this challenge. Children obviously cannot be brought up without discipline. They are little savages, and must be taught to accept the many frustrations that life itself makes inevitable. Most parents see no alternative but to adopt a stringent severity in their moral attitude toward their children, even while conceding that the lash may no longer be considered the most effective instrument for inculcating discipline.

Yet, suppression does not work! It merely perpetuates the evils it hopes to abolish. It does not eliminate or even hold back the destructive drives in human nature—it merely forces them into hidden recesses where, like steam under pressure, they must eventually explode.

Parents are led into this falsely harsh attitude toward their children largely because of unconscious processes, in themselves. Their agitation over the child's destructive impulses is based not simply on concern for the child's best welfare. It also springs from the fact that the child's behavior revives the parent's own buried primitive impulses and unconsciously recalls his own fearful struggles to bring them under control. The parent becomes frightened as much by his own secret residue of primitive desires as he is by the child's open expression of them.

RARELY DECEIVED

Children are rarely deceived in these matters. Unconsciously they sense the parent's mixed emotions, divining the secret guilt responsible for the undue severity of the punishment. They are thrown into inner confusion by this knowledge.

Some children, as a result, are led to question the culpability of their own misdeeds, and what finally remains in their minds is a bitter resentment of injustice rather than an acceptance of the need to control their primitive drives.

In later life, they will tend to give free rein to their impulses, however destructive or antisocial these may be. Their main concern will be simply to avoid punishment.

The parent who wishes his child to grow up into a normal and balanced adult must therefore free himself of the undue anxieties which are at the bottom of all suppressive measures. He must bear in mind that the child's primitive impulses are the source of his energies throughout life. They must be controlled; but to stifle them will seriously injure the child's normal drive and normal curiosity.

DIVERT BEHAVIOR

The great trick is always to treat the child's behavior as a normal manifestation, and simply to divert it to better uses whenever the realities of life so dictate.

This does not mean that we must dispense with firmness, discipline or even a normal amount of anger toward our children. It means that we will not impose the needless frustrations, the unjustified punishments, the projected guilts that cause so much damage. It means that we will choose the role of the wise teacher who, with love, leads his pupil into love.

The parent who chooses this role will balance restraint with freedom, compulsion with inspiration, restriction with adventure. He will know that a wise love is that which is designed mainly to support the child while it learns to adjust to the demands of the world. A child who grows up inwardly confident that he has had this kind of love from his parents is armed with the most powerful weapon on earth. Children so equipped possess the calm, deep courage that makes heroes and heroines in real life.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 diam. Pass 3 clubs Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Four of spades.

One of the fascinations of duplicate bridge is the opportunity to scratch for "below-the-surface" tricks which in most cases are a matter of indifference to the rubber bridge player.

In digging up this specimen from the baby book of Helen Sobel, I am assuming the role of archaeologist. It was culled from her first tournament over two decades ago.

North elected to open with one diamond though most players would have chosen to tee off with one club. East did not regard his holding as suitable for a vulnerable overcall and Mrs. Sobel responded with two clubs. North's perhaps imprudent opening bid had gotten him into an awkward position but he saw it through with a raise to three clubs, a call for which his hand did not contain the necessary values. South proceeded straightway to game in clubs.

West opened the four of spades and here if ever, appeared a cold average board, one trick must be lost in each of the red suits and 11 tricks, no more, no less, are available. The impulsive player with an eye to economy of time and motion would concede two tricks and move on to the next deal. But the resourceful Helen adopted a line of play which had nothing to lose and which might lead to the scoring of an overtrick.

She ducked the opening spade lead in the hope that East's shift would be to a diamond. East won with the queen and seeing no future in the spade suit decided to shift, looking upon the diamond as a more inviting lead. So back came the jack of diamonds won by South's ace. Trumps were drawn in two rounds. The king of diamonds was cashed. Dummy was entered with the king of spades and on the ace. South's little diamond was shed. A diamond was then ruffed and Mrs. Sobel's enterprise was rewarded when the suit broke 3-3, somewhat against the odds. The eight of clubs provided entry to dummy to dispose of the little heart and the result was five clubs with an overtrick for an undisputed top score.

Dixie Community TV Will Debut June 25

MEMPHIS, June 13 (AP)—WKNO, the mid-South's first community television station, will go on the air June 25.

The cultural and educational outlet, which will carry no sponsored programs or commercials, will operate on Channel 10. The Memphis Community Television Foundation, which will operate the $500,000 station, says its aim is to educate in an entertaining way.

Boredom— Kills at 30, Buries at 60

QUESTION: I am one of these people who is bored with life; you might say that I have lost my zest for living. I know many other people in the same boat. Can you help me?

M.A.S.

ANSWER: Boredom is a modern disease. It didn't exist quite so much in the days when we were driven by high purposes and great expectations. George Bernard Shaw said that many people of this generation should have written on their tombstones: "Died at 30; buried at 60."

Boredom, on the whole, is the result of frustration that comes from living too much within your own shell. The word sin is defined by St. Paul as "missing the mark." If our aims are totally selfish, we miss the mark, and are possessed with a sense of futility.

Christianity takes us out of our selfish sphere, and opens up life's horizons. Jesus said: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me." There is your cure for boredom: 1. Have a proper estimate of yourself, 2. have a cause, a noble purpose in life, and 3. follow Christ.

I do not know a single committed Christian who is bored.

Shows Begin Vacations, Some Won't Come Back

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD, June 13 AP.—The month of June signals vacation for school kids and television performers alike.

Within the next few weeks many video favorites begin their summer hiatus. Some programs will repeat films, others will have to be replaced by new shows, and those with low ratings will be killed off altogether.

Leaving the telewaves on ABC-TV this month are "Stop the Music," "Down You Go," "Outside USA," "Tomorrow's Careers," "Break the Bank," "Ethel and Albert" and "Chance of a Lifetime."

NBC-TV is chucking "Medic," "Frontier," "The Comedy Hour," "The Martha Raye Show," "The Milton Berle Show," "Playwrights 56," "Big Town" and "Ford Theatre."

Biting the dust at CBS are "Four-Star Playhouse," "Our Miss Brooks," "It's Always Jan," and "Navy Log."

Breaking into the lineup at ABC are "General Electric Summer Originals," "Combat Sergeant," "Bold Journey," "Going Places" and "Compass"—the latter trio sounds like a cook's tour via TV.

CBS replaces "I Love Lucy" July 2 with "The Charlie Farrell Show." Vic Damone takes over for "December Bride." Also moving in for the hot months are "Joe and Mabel," "Cartoon Theater," and a new quiz show, "High Finance," starring Dennis Day as emcee.

NBC is going in for pretty girls.

Cut Prices End For 6 Musicals

Discount prices on season tickets to the Municipal Theater Under the Stars will be discontinued after Friday, Maurice B. Seltzer, president of the theater, said Tuesday. Sales of the season tickets to the six Broadway musical comedies have more than doubled advance season sales for all previous records. The six Broadway shows to be presented in the amphitheater of Chastain Memorial Park beginning July 9 are "The King and I," "Brigadoon," "High Button Shoes," "Kismet" and "South Pacific."

KEEP WELL: Some Folks Are Allergic to Sun Rays

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

For many years we have known that certain chemicals sensitize the skin to the rays of the sun. Cosmetics containing oil of bergamot, for example, are most troublesome along this line. A rash develops (photodermatitis) whenever the chemical is applied to an exposed surface. The latest offenders are—of all things—suntan lotions and protective creams.

Some individuals have a natural allergy to Old Sol. They develop stinging, itching, eczema, hives, or other forms of dermatitis on exposure to sunlight. The extremely sensitive may be affected in this way after staying in the midsummer sun for two minutes. These people seek the shady side of the street and never venture out unless protected with a wide-brimmed hat or parasol. The victim of photodermatitis also is sensitive but something must be applied to the skin first to bring out the sensitivity. Burning and tanning occur just as in anyone else.

The first suggestion that certain suntan lotions were capable of sensitizing the skin came from Florida, where sunshine is plentiful and long exposure is possible. The patient in question decided she wanted to tan without burning and applied a lotion designed for that purpose. After being out of doors too long she discovered that a rash was developing over the exposed skin. Dr. Wiley M. Sams of Miami saw several patients who responded to exposure in this way and decided to run patch tests on the skin to determine the cause. He started by exposing a small area to ultraviolet light. The skin tanned a little but otherwise nothing happened. This meant that the sun was not responsible.

Then he placed certain chemicals on little square pieces of gauze and fixed them to the skin. This is the usual test for contact dermatitis. The results were negative in that a rash failed to arise. But when he first applied a sun screening cream to the skin and then exposed the area to ultraviolet, an eruption developed. In this respect he duplicated what milady had done prior to her sunbath. Although Dr. Sams has encountered many such cases, the number of photosensitive persons must be extremely small, considering the millions who apply sun lotions and creams before going to the beach.

All Speakers First Have Stage Fright

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Rudolph R., 17, is a high school senior.

"Dr. Crane, I am very timid in public," he admitted, "but the other kids in our church Young People's Society have elected me president."

"However, it scares me almost to death to think of getting up to say even couple of words."

"My hands shake and I can't think of anything to talk about. I blush and feel embarrassed."

"But I hate to be a quitter, so can you give me some advice by which I can get over my stage fright and learn to speak smoothly?"

PLATFORM PSYCHOLOGY

All famous speakers are shy and afflicted with stage fright at the beginning, so don't feel that you are abnormal when your hands tremble or your heart pounds and your face is flushed.

Demosthenes, the world's foremost orator, was in the same boat. Indeed, he also stuttered from fright and had a feeble, squeaky voice.

But he vowed he would conquer his own stage fright instead of being a slave to it.

So he orated against the noise of the waves along the seashore to increase the loudness of his tones.

Meanwhile, he held pebbles in his mouth to help divert his attention and thus free himself from stuttering.

Just reassure yourself, therefore, by remembering that all beginners go through the same "initiation" ordeal of stage fright.

SPEECH FORMULA

Force yourself to speak loudly. What you beginners think is very loud usually can hardly be heard beyond the first few rows in a large auditorium.

So have some friends "planted" in the rear to signal you when they can't hear. A weak voice suggests you are an amateur, so be sure and talk to the rear rows in extra loud tones.

If there is a microphone on the platform, don't hold it against your face and thus blot out the view of your lips.

Keep the microphone below the level of your chin and let the operator thereof regulate its volume. Talk to the audience — not to the microphone — for this is one of the common mistakes of Kiwanis, Lions and other men's club leaders.

AUNT HET

No man ever becomes so hardboiled that praise won't soften him.

At the outset, either hold on to the edges of the podium with your hands to avoid letting your tremor be evident to the crowd, or grasp your notes in both hands and then pull gently in opposite directions. This counter-attraction of your hands will make them look almost perfectly calm, though you still may feel jittery as a cat.

AUDIENCE PARTICIPATION

Try to launch your speech with an appropriate quotation that will "key" it or serve as your text. To quote a famous person of the past adds ritz or scholarly "oomph" to your opening.

Then document that text with a few actual cases, told in narrative style. And to enlist audience participation, name people in your crowd when it is possible to work them into your talk in a complimentary way.

This wakes up the audience, pleases the people named and makes them greater rooters for your address, since they are thus junior partners therein.

Conclude your talk with a punchy statement or scholarly quotation that neatly "ties the wheat in the sack." Don't end weakly.

For further advice, send for the booklet "Shortcuts to Public Platform Success." Address your requests to me in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped return envelop, plus 20 cents in coin.

A Battle for Charlie

For what it's worth: Taylor Phillips startled the whole National League when he walked into a Milwaukee uniform from nowhere, fanned Whitey Lockman on three pitches and goosed the Giants for two innings. . . . Now Memphis has lost a manager by recall. Last year it was Jack Cassini by a skulking. When Cassini went to the bedside of his father, Don Griffin was left in charge. Toronto had to have Griffin back and the catcher went. Maybe the Chicks really don't need a manager. . . . Old doughboys will pay attention to the day that Kaiser of the Cubs meets Wilhelm of the Giants.

While the rest of the Braves suffer a horrendous slump, Chuck Tanner and Frank Torre ride the bench hitting .389 and .351. But Charlie Grimm has finally decided to alternate Jack Dittmer with Danny O'Connell against right-handed pitching. . . . You may not have noticed that the widow of Jim Bagby passed on this week. It was about two years ago that old Sarge died. . . . Sandy Koufax, who holds undisputed claim to the title as the major leagues' worst hitter, finally made his acquaintance with first base. Russ Meyer walked the Dodgers' bonus baby on four pitches.

All you've got to do is show up at Indianapolis on Memorial Day to get something for your trouble. Troy Ruttman, who brought up the rear, took home $2,384. . . . Everybody knows about Dizzy and Daffy Dean, but whatever became of Dopey Dean, the pitcher from Georgia that Washington once owned?

—Frank Howard and His 'Issards'

Charlie Hurth may as well brace himself. He faces a stern match at the all-star game meeting with Southern Association directors about the men he calls his umpires. . . . Memphis is latest to crawl on the president's back. Neil Strocchia, a most Inconsistent individual, forced the Chicks to turn on their lights at 5:20 p.m. with the sun shining brightly. It cost the club an unnecessary $72. . . . Dale Long has been requested to submit his record-breaking eight-day bat to the Hall of Fame, which made Danny Kravitz very angry. It was his bat.

Frank Howard calls this year's Clemson football team a team of "issards." "I've had enough of them 'has-beens' and 'goner-bes' around here," said the rustic one. "These 'issards' is what I've been needing." . . . Lloyd Mangrum picks Gene Little to take the National Open in a Saturday Evening Post place this week. . . . The feud is over between the Bauer girls, Alice and Marlene, who have been doing marital time with the same husband in that order. Bill Diehl (Norfolk Ledger-Star) reports the hatchet was buried at Virginia Beach. He didn't say in whose neck.

Bud Wilkinson tells about the reserve fullback who begged off from a big spring scrimmage on account of a bruised heel. Next day the Oklahoma coach read in the paper that the boy had won a jittersbugging contest. "I know, Coach," said the fullback, "but you jittersbug on your toes." . . . And whatever became of the Big Apple?

—The All-Time King Retires

September is the "fall" month for all sluggers aiming at Babe Ruth's high-water homer mark. No other contender for the title ever hit more than 12 the last month. Hank Greenberg came closest, needed only two homers in the last five games to tie Ruth's 60. He drew a blank. . . . The all-time all-everything king of slug, Joe Bauman, turned in his uniform at Roswell, N.M., the other day. Rejuvenated a bad ankle on his front porch steps and announced his retirement. He hit 72 home runs in the West Texas-New Mexico league two years ago. . . . And whatever became of Willie Duke?

Stable Fire, Storm Mar Equestrian Olympics

STOCKHOLM, June 13 (UP)—A flash stable fire, a rain storm and severe injuries to horses and riders brought high drama and a threat of disaster today to the Equestrian Olympic Games.

The fire, born in a pile of hay, spread throughout a big red brick training building in the stable area where more than 200 Olympic horses worth a million dollars were quartered.

Dozens of horses were evacuated to safety and none was reported injured although many had narrow escapes.

The blaze came a few hours after completion of the second

Castronis and Mrvos New Georgia Aides

Billy Carrollton Also on Staff;
Gibson Line Coach at SGC

By LARRY FOX

Former Georgia line standouts Mike Castronis, Sam Mrvos and Billy Carrollton will serve as graduate assistants in football at their alma mater next fall, The Constitution learned Wednesday.

Castronis, an all-America selection in 1945, leaves the job of head coach at Winder High School. Mrvos, a place-kicking guard off the 1953 team, has been line coach at South Georgia College. Carrollton, a center, played on the 1955 Georgia team.

Mrvos will be succeeded by Vincent Gibson as line aide to Bobby Bowden at SGC, William S. Smith, president of the junior college at Douglas, said.

Mrvos and Castronis have already started work on their masters degrees and will complete requirements during the next year at Georgia. Castronis hopes then to leave the coaching field and enter the administrative end of school work.

Succeeding Castronis at Winder, according to Superintendent of Schools D. F. Osborne, will be Sam McIntire, who served the last seven years as head coach at Villa Rica. Arlin Barr, assistant coach at Campbell of Smyrna, will move to Winder in a similar capacity while Paul Stewart, who had been No. 1 aide to Castronis, goes to Elberton as an assistant.

Castronis was a member of Georgia's 1945 Oil Bowl champions and later played some professional football for Greensboro, N.C., in the old Dixie League. He was head coach at Hogsansville before coming to Winder in 1953. He is a native of Jacksonville, Fla.

In addition to assisting in football, Mrvos coached the state championship baseball team at South Georgia this spring. The McKeesport, Pa., native will best be remembered for kicking the

Bullpups Beaten In Eastern Tennis

HAMILTON, N.Y., June 13 (UP)—The University of Georgia entry of Lindsey Hopkins and Alfred Thompson was eliminated today in the freshman singles division of the Eastern Intercollegiate tennis tournament being played at Colgate University here.

Hopkins, who was second seeded, was upset by George Mandel, a strong but often erratic player from NYU, 7-5, 6-3. Thompson was defeated by fourth-ranked Jon Erickson of Michigan, 7-5, 6-4.

As a doubles entry, they moved into the second round of play when the team of Erickson and Koral of Michigan defaulted.

Maj. Jonathan R. Burton, 36, Berwyn, Ill., was thrown at the finish and was taken to the hospital for head X-rays.

Although the U. S. team was disqualified, Walter G. Staley of Mexico, Mo., had one of the best rides of the day on Mud Dauber and vaulted from 56th place in the individual standings to 10th with a point score of 134.57.

Crax Nip Bears, 7-6, On Gift Run In Tenth

Yochim Victor In Relief Stint

By JESSE OUTLAR
Pinch-hitter Bob Montag backed into a soft serve by Bob Cain with the bases loaded and two down in the 10th inning as Mobile strategy backfired into a 7-6 Atlanta victory Wednesday night—the 14th success for the Crackers in 18 games at Poncey.

Thanks to the Mobile generosity, the last three Cracker batters didn't have to take the bat off their shoulders to win it. Bill Reynolds, who skipped across with the winning run after Montag was hit, started the zany rally with a one-out single through the box. Then he buzzed to third as Buck Riddle singled and was cut down at second trying for a double.

At that point, Mobile manager Jo Jo White started the strategy wheels humming and ordered intentional passes for Frank DiPrima and Bibby Willis to jam the bases.

Cain then plunked Montag with an inside pitch to end the 3:10 battle on a merry note for the 4,072 car night customers and the Crackers.

Manager Clyde King, who had right-handed hitting Corky Valentine and injured Frank Sacka available to swing at the southpaw Cain, selected Montag, who isn't noted for hitting lefties. And, as it turned out, Bob didn't have to.

Lefty Lennie Yochim, making his debut before the home folks, snuffed out an eighth-inning rally and held the Bears hitless for the rest of the way to sack the victory. It was his first Cracker triumph and the fifth of the year for the ex-Pel.

At the outset, it looked like a typical Joey Jay production. Staked to a 5-0 lead by his mates, with Bob Thorpe and Buck Riddle supplying two-run homers, Jay moved down the Bears in scores style for five rounds.

Blanked by the 20-year-old ace for 13 successive innings, Mobile fired a four-run blast in the sixth, and kayced Joey in the next round.

Gordy Coleman and Bud Hardin wrapped singles around Dick Brown's walk for one run in the riotous sixth, and Hank Izquierdo outfooted an infield hit to load the bases. Steve Jankowski then rifled a triple down the left-center slot, and the Bears had four runs in and Jay on the ropes with none out.

With the tying run perched on third, however, Joey bounced back and fanned pinch-hitter Chris Kitson and Jack Waters and got Ron Graber on an inning-ending ground-out.

When Bob Prentice opened the seventh with a hit to left and took third on Coleman's single, King gave Joey the book. Charlie Bicknell slammed the door, after Brown delivered Prentice with a sacrifice fly for a 5-5 snarl.

The Crackers broke on top when Thorpe muscled his No. 7 homer some 400 feet over the left fence after Dick Snovic had singled with two out in the first. Buck Riddle's No. 10 homer into the left field seats, following a single by Reynolds, rearmored the lead in the fourth.

Bear ace Bill Dailey, who was having a rough evening, was pecked for the fifth run in the fifth, when Snovic singled, took second as Snovic juggled the ball in left, and came across on Thorpe's single.

Snead Loses Caddy But Finds Four-Leaf

Weary Hogan, Angry Snead Head National Open Field

Ben Gunning For 5th Title

By WILL GRIMSLEY
ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—A weary Ben Hogan and a highly agitated Sam Snead face the challenge of golf's new young guard again tomorrow in the first round of the 56th National Open championship.

Most of the field of 162-134 pros and 28 amateurs—as if by habit looked apprehensively in the direction of Hogan, the phlegmatic little four-time champion from Texas, although he is 43, semi-retired and, he says, "dead tired."

"I've been working too hard for this tournament," Ben said after playing nine holes of the 6,902-yard, par 70 Oak Hill course. "I'm awfully tired and I'm not playing well at all."

Hogan's long-time adversary, 44-year-old Sam Snead, who is the greatest golfer never to win this blue-ribboned classic, was not tired—he was just mad.

Snead's caddy, an aged Negro named Jimmy Steed, was suddenly snatched from him this morning by the U. S. Golf Assn. and the Slamner was assigned a cast-off bag-toter who had been fired by defending champion Jack Fleck.

"They had no right to do that," complained Snead. "I've had this fellow all week and now I get a new man. What do they care who caddies for who?"

The USGA said the move was made because Steed, a caddy who has worked for Snead off and on for 22 years, was assigned contrary to regulations: Rules require that caddies be drawn from blind pools. Steed, who came here specifically to work for his old boss, got the job as an alternate when Snead dismissed his original bag-carrier.

Hogan and Snead were the choices of both the Oak Hill gallery and the players as the "men to beat" despite the rise of a new generation of golf precisionists who have dominated the tour.

Hogan, beaten by unknown Jack Fleck in a dramatic 18-hole playoff at San Francisco last year proved his seriousness in the tournament by spending most of the day on the practice tees and putting greens. He normally rests on the day before the Open.

Gene Littler, 25, and Mike Souchak, 29, are the chief of the new threats. The cold, methodical Littler is the leading money winner with $17,373.92 and comes here riding a hot streak which won him the Wyckoff Round-Robin last week. Souchak, the former Duke football player, has Snead's power, plus youth.

Arnold Palmer, 26-year-old Latrobe, Pa., pro, shot the best practice round today with a 67, three under par. He is one of the highest regarded of the game's newcomers.

Besides Fleck, a forgotten champion given virtually no chance to repeat. Open winners in the field include Hogan, lame-armed Ed Furor, Julius Boros, Cary Middlecoff and Lew Worsham.

SAM LUCKY IN ROUGH —HOW ABOUT GREENS?

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—"Ah'm doing better finding four-leaf clovers than ah am playing golf," remarked Sam Snead today as he finished his final warm-up round for the 56th National Open championship which starts tomorrow.

Snead picked up half a dozen of the traditional symbols of good luck as he toured Oak Hill Country Club's east course in the company of Buck White, Greenwood, Miss.

Snead, who has won everything in sight except the Open during nearly two decades of competitive golf, already has been firmly established in his traditional role as sentimental favorite.

The four-leaf clovers could help him along—those plus his reportedly "reformed" putter.

Special to The Constitution
GRIFFIN, June 13—Don Patterson, No. 1 player on Decatur High's links team, shot a 74 over the Griffin Golf Club course Wednesday to tie Atlanta junior champion Bobby Pierce for the 36-hole lead in the third annual Griffin Junior tournament. Patterson has 75-74-149 and Pierce 74-75-149.

Mary Lib Fisher Pilots Meadow Brook Star to First in Shrine Show

Welcome Harmony, Sun's Jet Take Horse Show Features

Mary Lib Fisher Dominates Jump

By BERT PRATHER

Sun's Jet Parade, a sleek, black Tennessee Walking horse, and Welcome Harmony, high-stepping five-gaited beauty, shared top honors on the opening program of the 13th Greater Atlanta Shrine Horse Show Wednesday night at Chastain Memorial Park.

Sun's Jet, performing under the expert handling of veteran rider Vic Thompson, got the judge's nod over another stallion, Rhoda's Merry Boy, owned by Davis brothers of Calhoun and ridden by Harold Kennedy.

Sun's Jet Parade is owned by Boyce Hogan of Athens, Ga. His victory in this walking horse, stallion and gelding stake stamped him as a strong candidate for Saturday night's grand championship. This event was preliminary to championship.

Welcome Harmony, a bay mare, prevailed in the five-gaited mare stake, preliminary to championship. She is the pride of Helen Robinson's stables of Atlanta. Pep Peppatti was up, Sissy Burg's Sadie Thompson, ridden by Miles Wright of Charlotte, N.C., was a close second. The field in this class was one of the finest of the day and night program.

Blond Mary Lib Fisher of Charlotte dominated the jumping classes Wednesday. She won the open jumper class in the afternoon with Meadow Brook Stables' Rubber Ball and then came back on the night card to take first and second in the ladies' hunter class.

Mary Lib's victory in the ladies' hunter class was scored with Dick Hull's star jumper Maxwell. Her second-place mount was Port O'Warack, owned by Mrs. Marie Bright, Matthews, N.C.

SHOW NOTES: Bobby Ludwig of Roswell road was the lucky boy in Wednesday afternoon's draw for the Shetland pony. One pony will be given away each afternoon during the show. He comes equipped with new saddle and bridle. The kids have another treat in store for them Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Fuzzy St. John, who formerly teamed with Hopalong Cassidy on TV and in movies, will be on hand to entertain the small fry and grownups as well. . . . The six-pony hitch, sponsored by Victor Adding Machine Co., is another added attraction.

PLAY BETTER GOLF

ONLY for purposes of detailed analysis have these lessons treated the backswing and downswing as things separate and apart. Actually the two movements are components, with that all-important pause at the top of the backswing serving as a punctuation point in an otherwise continuous and rhythmic golf swing. In the hip turn and knee action, for example, we see how the downswing is the complement, or reverse, of the backswing. On the downswing the right knee and foot execute essentially the same action that the left knee and foot did on the backswing. Perfection of this complementary action is the secret of a good pivot, and a smooth, rhythmic golf swing.

(These lessons appear Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday in your Constitution.)

As Losses Dot Key Areas

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—The strong rally from Friday's break continued today for the third session, but the tempo of recovery slowed.

News of the President's illness Friday brought the sharpest decline in eight months, but the market now has recovered all of the lost ground and 50 per cent more.

The rise today produced gains of 1 to 2 points generally. The list was well flecked with minor minus signs in key areas.

STEELS COME THROUGH
Oils and aircrafts produced buying that bolstered the market early. Then steels came through with late strength to help matters at a time when the list was backing down from its best.

Right now the market stands at the highest point in the recovery drive that nipped a three-week reaction starting from near the April highs.

As measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, here is what happened in the past four days. Friday the average was off $3. Monday up $2.20, Tuesday up $1.80 and today up 60 cents at $181.60.

Industrial component of the average was up 90 cents, rails 60 cents and utilities 10 cents. There were 1,143 individual

Ga. Lawmen To Convene Oct. 23-24

SAVANNAH, June 13 (AP)—Gov. Marvin Griffin, Eugene J. Cook, attorney general of Georgia, and Herman Talmadge, former governor and candidate for United States senator, will be among speakers at the annual convention of the Georgia Officers Assn. of Georgia to be held here in October.

The speakers were announced here Wednesday by E. D. Mink of Atlanta, secretary and treasurer of the association.

Mink and other officers and committeemen of the association were here Wednesday to arrange plans for the convention slated for Oct. 23-24 at the Hotel DeSoto.

About 1,000 persons from throughout the state, including peace officers, their wives and other guests, are expected to attend the two-day convention, Mink said.

J. H. Bisson, chief of police of Brunswick, who is the first vice president of the association, presided at the convention here Wednesday in the absence of Sheriff John Redding of Cedar town (Polk County), president, who was unable to attend.

Driver of Truck Dies in Collision With Bus at Perry

PERRY, June 13 (AP)—The driver of a truck loaded with watermelons was killed Wednesday in a collision with a chartered bus on U.S. 41 about nine miles south of Perry.

The State Patrol identified the dead man as William S. Foley, 57, of Goldburg, Ky.

The bus driver, listed as George V. Gray, 25, of Lake City, Fla., was injured and several passengers shaken up, the patrol said.

Investigating officers from the patrol's post at Perry said the chartered Greyhound bus was carrying members of a barbershop choir from St. Petersburg, Fla., to Minneapolis, Minn., to attend a convention.

Officers said the bus struck the rear of the truck and that the truck overturned.

The Rev. W. A. Duncan will officiate. Burial will be in Antioch Baptist churchyard.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Fred Barre, and two sisters, Mrs. Hattie Wells and Mrs. Thomas Crusselle, all of Atlanta.

Clerk Simmons Seeks 7th Term

J. W. Simmons has announced his candidacy for his seventh year term as clerk of Fulton Superior Court.

Simmons is now in his 27th year as clerk of the court, having been first elected in 1930 to a portion of an unexpired term. He has been opposed for reelection only twice during the entire period—in 1932 and 1936.

In announcing his candidacy for the Sept. 12 primary, Simmons said he wanted to assure the courts, the bar and the public that "the same high standard of service and performance for which this office is known will be maintained so long as I am clerk of this court."

Her latest book is "Strange Sea Stories," which she wrote in 1955. She also has written "Dragon John" and "The Sea is Blue."

She was married in 1922 to Robert Lawson, also an author and illustrator whose best known work is "Ferdinand."

Duncan Hits Dairies' Merchandising

The chairman of the State Milk Control Board said Wednesday that the dairy industry should increase its advertising and promotion program to stimulate the sale and use of fluid milk.

Charles G. Duncan made the comment at a meeting of the board and became the second state official to take the dairy industry to task recently.

Several days ago Commissioner of Agriculture Phil Campbell said the industry is not doing all it should in merchandising. He made that statement to a legislative committee studying milk pricing in Georgia.

Duncan said the industry should do more than it is now to build up sales.

James E. Jackson, board member and director of the Georgia Dairy Association, said the sale of fluid milk is becoming less attractive to the industry because of the profit on milk products. The industry would do more advertising if the profits were more attractive, he said.

Retail milk prices will go up one-cent a quart in Georgia—to 26 cents in most areas of the state for bottled milk—on July 1. And the board agreed Wednesday that there is no indication the prices will come down again any time soon, although Georgia prices are higher than the national average of 23.9 cents a quart.

Georgia prices are based on a formula of production costs and other economic factors.

A. C. Lawrence Named Memphis Postal Controller

A. C. Lawrence, former Atlanta postal official and member of the commission that produced the city's Plan of Improvement, has been appointed controller of the Post Office Department's Memphis, Tenn. region.

His appointment was announced by Assistant Postmaster General Albert J. Robertson.

Lawrence was assistant regional accounting director for the postal service in Atlanta for three years prior to his November, 1954, transfer to Memphis as director of that region's accounting division.

Blast Goes Off Near Liner United States

SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 13 (AP)—A loud explosion startled 740 passengers aboard the liner United States today as the pride of the American merchant marine was approaching Southampton.

The 53,000-ton ship did not slow her speed. No one was injured and the liner was in no danger.

The blast occurred while the ship was passing a proving ground where Britain's navy tests mines and depth charges.
